MARKET REVIEW.

BRICKS.—The market does not differ in any important particular from the general position noted in this column for several weeks, except probably that the demand has rather increased, and there is a corresponding gain of strength on values. A very few cargoes have managed to work in from the North River and from Long Island, and all sold without difficulty, the former at $10 per M, and the latter at $9@9.50 per M, with the same figures still bid for more, and the probabilities that a large quantity of stock could be sold if here. The call is mainly from local dealers, but buyers from Brooklyn, Jersey City, etc., have been in the market on the lookout for supplies. We find the trade as a rule quite sanguine of full prices throughout the Spring, and a good steady movement of stock is predicted, and there is said to be a large amount of building proposed, and some of the leading contractors half inclined to make their engagements even now, for a portion of the stock likely to be wanted, though a lower basis of values is naturally asked. The prices current, however, if maintained until the opening of navigation, are likely to stimulate manufacturers who have any bricks left on hand to forward as rapidly as possible, and it is not altogether unlikely that the rush of stock into market at first may be so great as to give buyers a temporary advantage at least. We are informed that the preparations making for next season's work are fully as extensive as last year, and that unless the outlet very materially increases, there is likely to be an ample supply of bricks of all kinds. Pale Brick would sell well now, and can safely be quoted as worth at least $6@6.50 per M. The dealers in and around the city have been pretty busy of late, both on fresh orders and delivering up on back sales, and in many cases the supplies shew quite a decided falling off, a few retailers in fact having scarcely any stock left, and they are of course anxious to replenish for the spring trade. Of Philadelphia fronts the sales have been fair, and full prices were obtained, the market showing a firm tone. On Crotons there is no improvement, buyers feeling quite indifferent in view of the certainty of getting an ample supply when they require it, and on easy terms, as holders are anxious to sell.

CEMENT.—There is nothing fresh to note on this market, business continuing good as compared with the very moderate supply available, and holders with the position well

REAL ESTATE MARKET.

The attendance at the Exchange sales-room during the week has been fair, with an amount of business transacted considerably in excess of the previous week, but at prices generally unsatisfactory to the seller. The indications are that from the present date livelier times will be witnessed at the Exchange, and between this time and the first day of under control insuring upon and easily obtaining extreme figures. The movement at the moment appears to be mainly local, most of the export orders having been filled, and very little taken on domestic shipping account, but the outlet is plenty large enough for buyers' interest, and even at the present rate of sales must soon reduce the accumulation of stock to such a small compass as to carry prices still higher.

DRAIN AND SEWER PIPE.—As usual at this season of the year, business is extremely moderate and confined mainly to small retail lots as wanted for special use, and with most of the dealers well stocked as to quantity and assortment selections are made without difficulty. The trade generally seems hopeful of a good movement with the opening of spring, not on local but on shipping account, as it is thought that the dullness of last season caused an accumulation of wants which must now be supplied. The manufacturers have perfected an organization and agreed upon a price list for the coming year, and we revise our figures to conform thereto. On the small sizes some advance has been made, and on the large sizes a reduction. From the list a discount of 20 per cent. is allowed, and an additional discount to good customers for cash, according to agreement, to the trade only.

LATH.—There is nothing really new on this market, owing to the very small amount of business doing and the difficulty experienced in arriving at the views of buyers and sellers. Still we think the position is gradually gaining strength, and the prospects are more favorable for an advance than a shrinkage in values. The city dealers hold some stock yet, but it is not by any means large, and the demand from consumers, according to all precedent, must gradually improve during the next five or six weeks, while the amounts on the way, if all accounts be true, are very small, and a goodly proportion have already been sold to arrive. Buyers of course are disposed to resist an advance, and will not be likely to operate beyond actual wants; but at this season it is necessary to hurry buildings forward to completion in order to comply with contracts maturing in the spring, and sellers naturally will take advantage of this. As we close the nominal quotation is $3.00 per M.

LIME.—There still continues to be an absence of any regular wholesale market, and no new features to report from any point for the week. Nothing is known, or at least nothing is revealed as to the amounts en route or likely to be shipped when cargoes can be brought through with safety, though the intimations are that very little lime is to be offered for several weeks yet, owing in part to the absence of a general demand and in part to the want of supplies at the kilns. The impression is that finishing will sell best and advance first, as there is only a small proportion of this grade among whatever amounts may be available. Some of the stale stock still remains in first hands, but is held with much firmness. We quote the nominal wholesale rates at $1.30 per bbl. for common; and $1.65 for lump. The business from retail dealers' hands is a little better, but at too irregular figures to admit of quotations.

LUMBER.—The miserable condition of the streets last week prevented deliveries on many of the sales made, and dealers have since been obliged to use every effort to accommodate their customers, most of whom postponed purchases until the latest possible moment and then insisted upon receiving goods at once. This naturally has interfered to some extent with the regular course of business, but still the movement has, on the whole, continued very fair, and the call seems more likely to increase than diminish, with a pretty good prospect for the spring trade as compared with the fall and winter. Among the buyers are to be found builders, manufacturers, and shippers who cover to a greater or less extent all grades of lumber in their operations, and the result is a uniform reduction of supplies, though most dealers agree that nothing has as yet gone out with sufficient freedom to produce anything like an actual scarcity. It is difficult to give close quotations, and we combine former figures, though our readers must bear in mind that we only pretend to give approximating rates, as the terms agreed upon between buyers and sellers frequently vary very materially according to momentary influencing circumstances.

In a wholesale way there has not been much of general interest developed, the supplies from fresh arrivals being too moderate and uncertain at this season of the year to admit of a positive market, especially so since the late storms so seriously impeded navigation along the coast. As a rule, however, there has not been much general inquiry, and buyers in attendance appeared to want the best stock or none at all. There has been a little better demand for export in part to fill back orders, and partly in view of later instructions, but nothing of magnitude sufficient to cause any excitement, and nowhere near the ability of holders of suitable stock to meet the outlet. For future delivery a few contracts have been made, but buyers are evidently much less anxious than sellers, and though the prices asked are still pretty full there appears to be hopes entertained of easier terms as the season advances. The success of the lumbermen in the woods is unquestioned; there has undoubtedly been enough snow to bank a large proportion of the logs cut, and with ordinary luck the run to the booms in the spring will be successful, while there is no present prospect of any great increase of the demand for lumber.

Eastern Spruce continues somewhat unsettled, owing to the uncertain supply, and without any great amount of activity. Buyers are always to be found in the market, but at a matter they do not develop their wants freely, and it is at present of doubt as to how large the existing outlet may in reality be. Receivers and agents, however, express themselves confidently, and consider values not only as high, but as firm as ever, and quote at full former figures in all cases. We have hints of several contracts made on next season's production, but can gain no positive information on the subject. The closing quotations are about $19.50@20.50 per M for inferior to prime; and $21@22 1/2 for choice. White Pine has sold to some extent for export at former rates, and, as far as business went, the market was steady. The demand, however, is far from active, and the supply offering keeps up fully to the wants of trade.

Some dealers have been sounding manufacturers and holders of supplies at the mills, and report a pretty firm tone current, the common grades being looked upon as likely to be used as a substitute for spruce, etc. We quote at $18@20 per M for inferior to fair culls; $21@23 for good stock; $24@25 for prime to choice shipping qualities; and $26@30 for selections. Yellow Pine has continued to arrive pretty freely in part on contract, but rather more in the way of random cargoes than before, and as the demand is not active, a considerable amount of stock has been piled out to await a market. Prices no lower, but purchases can be made at former figures with ease, and agents are said to be offering special inducements to secure orders for extra lengths, business in this line also, dragging somewhat. We quote at $29@30 per M for fair to good; and $31@32 do for prime.

Additional exports were made as follows:—To British Australia, 620 bundles lath, value $217; to Hayti, 200 bundles shingles, value $325; to Central America, 10,000 shingles, value $180; to Antwerp, 12,040 staves; to Rotterdam, 9,900 staves; to Glasgow, 2,400 do; to Cork, 6,000 do; to British Guinea, 68,400 do; to Cadiz, 143,620 do; to Seville, 25,800 do; to Santander, 18,000 do; to Bilbao, 1,200 do; to Africa, 15,600 do, and 50 shooks; to British West Indies, 400 shooks; to British Honduras, 5,000 do; to British Australia, 1,000 do; to Cuba, 2,590 do, and 31,740 hoops. Receipts reported as follows:—From Darien, Ga., 300,000 feet lumber; from Charleston, 300,000 feet do; from Savannah, 400,000 feet do; from Jacksonville, 600,000 feet do; from Pensacola, 216,465 feet do.

Charters as follows:—Two brigs to north side Cuba, empty hogheads, 80c; a brig, 200 M lumber, from Brunswick, Geo., to Pernambuco, $18 and primage, two schrs., from Bucksville, S. C. to the Windward, lumber, $10; one 150 tons, to Jacksonville and back, lumber, $13.25; one 168 tons, from Savannah to Providence, lumber, $8.25; one from Darien to New York, lumber, $8.50; one 139 tons, from Bucksville, S. C., to Porto Rico, lumber, $5, or 11 to a second port, $10; one 222 tons, from Bucksville to Martinique, lumber, $10; barque, 688 tons, to River Plate, lumber, etc.; a schr. from Wilmington, N. C., to South America, and one from Jacksonville to Fall River, 100 M boards, on private terms.

By recent advices from Rio Janeiro we have the following:—LUMBER—250,000 feet one inch, received from Baltimore, sold at 108 rs; and 195,000 do from Millbridge, 105 rs per foot. Market very dull, and dealers well supplied.

Last week we gave a sketch of camp life among the lumbermen which was not altogether of character to tempt many people to participate for mere pleasure. The following, however, written by a correspondent of the Muskegan Enterprise gives rather a brighter side of the picture:—

Doubtless many of your readers are familiar with logging shanties, but there must be many who have never seen such curiosities, except ancient and distinguished ones brought to the light of the present public only by the laying out of new woods or the clearing up of pine stump lands. Such was the case of your correspondent until a few days since, when, by a concatenation of circumstances, he was brought into actual contact with one of S. R. Sanford's logging camps in the neighborhood of Flat River, kept (or rather run) by Richard Peacock, of Bridgeton, who, by the way, is much less gay and infinitely more useful than his name would seem to warrant. The situation is near a small brook on the s. e. 1/4 of sec. 6 in t. 11 n. r. 7 w. Town of Douglas, Montcalm County, and within fifty rods of two beautiful lakes covering some two hundred and fifty acres, and of which place Mr. Sanford and his co-partner in this job, Mr. Peck, of our city, have given the very appropriate name of Lacustrine. I shall not attempt to give the size of buildings, for not being an insurance agent, I had no tape measure, and can only describe them by their ca-capacity. All except the granary were built of logs, and building No. 1 was composed of apartments as follows:—One cooking and dining room of two women forty men and one dog capacity, one sleeping room for the men, with berths arranged in steamboat fashion—with a stove in the centre—of about twenty-four men capacity; one sitting-room with stove, of the same capacity of the last, and some extra space for a musician and country dance—an amusement very invigorating and an exercise very appropriate after the sedentary occupation of riding on a load of sawlogs all day. Building No. 2 is a barn of the capacity of six tons of hay and twelve pairs of horses. No. 3 has capacity of a blacksmith and joiner's shop in a single room. No. 4 is the dormitory of our townsmen, A. Peltier and L. Graves, and their crew of sixteen men, choppers and skidders, who have their open fire-place in the middle and berths outside, and who board in building No. 1. No. 5 is a barn of the capacity of four shafts of oxen belonging to the skidders. No. 6 is a board shanty for storage of grain and provisions.

The boarding department is superintended by Mrs. Peltier, assisted by a young lady from Stanton (the county seat) and a male Peacock chick. The motto of the institution is "Order is Heaven's first Law." The alarm clock is set to 4:30 when the men of the house are called, the teams fed and breakfast ready at 5. In half an hour the teams (being loaded over night) are on the move. By this time the breakfast for the choppers and skidders is ready and the whistle for them is sounded, and as their business requires daylight, they are ready by the time that event occurs. The business of the whole establishment is work. They tolerate no idlers nor shirks—your correspondent and other well-behaved visitors always excepted.

The capacious tables are covered with a neat and clean oil-cloth, and loaded with all the substantial and many of the luxuries of life. The furniture, though not ornamental, showing plainly its impromptu origin, is substantial and comfortable, the appetites of the boarders good, and their sleep sound. In the neighborhood, and about eighty rods from there, and on an eminence between the lakes, is the camp of D. C. Moore, Esq., of Greenville, and about two miles northwest is another camp of Sanford's, superintended by N. Cobb, of Ashland.

To many who live between airtight walls these domiciles seem rude and bleak, who lounge on sofas these seats may seem hard and rough, who are warmed by furnaces, this open winter air may seem chill and insufferable, who sleep and often only lie on down, may think these bunks of hay and straw wearisome and intolerable, but with these denizens of the pine forest, who cares? Their muscles are inured to labor and their sinews to tension; the air they breathe is uncontaminated with city filth and pestilence; the water they drink has percolated through offal and putridity; to them work is pleasure and exercise is recreation. Such are the men who saved our country in its peril. To many parlor ladies, the duties of this forest-bound matron may seem irksome and onerous; her labor may seem slavish and menial. But spare your pity, my good ladies, for those who can better appreciate it. She has accomplishments that grow forth here that you know not of. Those who can grace a cabin can shine in a parlor. Those who can only shine in a parlor are only incumbrances in a cabin. Such women as she are mothers of statesmen and heroes. They are more worthy of honor than of pity.

The Bay City (Mich.) Journal says:—"Parties from Albany, N. Y., purchased lumber to the amount of one million five hundred thousand feet in this city on Thursday last. The prices paid were $6, $12, and $36, according to quality, which is quite an advance on old rates. We are unable to ascertain the names of the parties in this transaction. Reports from lumbermen as to the prospects for the coming season, are universally favorable, and busy times and fair prices are anticipated."

The Boston lumber market is reported as follows:—In the lumber market there is not much that is new to note this week, though there is a good seasonable demand for all grades at steady prices. The storms of the past week have interfered with the deliveries of lumber, and sales have been light. In the hands of architects and master builders are plans and specifications indicating that an unusual amount of capital is to be directed towards building operations the coming season.

The late snow storms have reached the lumber regions, and logging is now brisk and promises to furnish a full supply for next season's sawing; hence, though the demand for lumber will be heavier than last year, yet dealers do not apprehend any further advance in prices, but believe that present quotations will be firmly maintained.

The stock of clapboards and some grades of shingles, especially of shaved cedar, is running very low, and the usual early demand for shingles will be likely to cause some advance in rates until the demand is met by next season's product. Canada lumber is quiet and prices firm, with the stock both here and at Burlington moderate for the season.
