JANUARY 5, 1884.

During the past two months the subscription list of THE RECORD AND GUIDE has been very largely increased. We have not had so many additions to our regular readers since March, 1881. There is not, just now, any particular interest in real estate, but THE RECORD AND GUIDE caters for other specialties equally important. The business depression is causing so many failures that credits are being watched as never before; hence the importance to bankers and creditors of the information published in these columns. Then this paper is in demand in the "street" and in stock circles for its sane and candid judgments as to the values of railway securities. We have been able to tell the truth without prejudice, and those who followed our advice have saved their money. For proof of this we refer to our warnings for the last three years as to the danger of investing in Northern Pacific bonds and stock. Of course, the organization of a Real Estate Exchange will make THE RECORD AND GUIDE indispensable to all who own or deal in realty in New York or its neighborhood. This will be an active year in real estate, though the market for the coming spring may be a declining one, in sympathy with the general condition of the trade of the country.

If Mr. Villard has really lost all his fortune, people who have not been injured by his management of their money will be disposed to think well of him. He carried through a great enterprise and if he sacrificed his own as well as his friends' means his judgment may be impugned but not his honesty. But he will never amount to much in the "street" again. In that locality it is those who keep their money-not those who lose it-are treated with consideration.

The "Ticker" is still out of repair but its operator believes that January will not be so good a month for the bears as was December. He said so during all of last month but he added that while prices might be better the bulls must not expect any boom. While the general outlook was not good a reaction from the late depression was in order.

The Huntington-Colton letters are painful reading. They show that the representatives of great corporations, such as Gould, Scott and Huntington, have for years been packing committees of Congress in corporation interests and bribing Representatives and Senators. Such men are traitors to the Republic ; they are our most dangerous public enemies, but it must be confessed that the most disheartening sign of the times is the apathy of press and public in face of these startling disclosures. They seem to be taken as a matter of course.

The Ramapo water scheme is said to be backed by ex-Mayor Cooper and Congressman Hewitt. It does not seem practicable, however, and the Sinking Fund Commissioners would not be justified in putting the city to the expense of taking water from Jersey, thirty miles away, when there is so much of it available in the North and East Rivers right at our doors. Fire Commissioner Purroy's scheme for utilizing the river and bay water in case of a great fire has the merit of being inexpensive. He would use the two splendid fire tugs of the Fire Department, which could pump sufficient water into movable tanks to supply all the available engines of the department. By all means let this simple and apparently efficient plan be tried. It will not, in any event, cost much.

Ninety millions of dollars was paid out during the past year by the insurance companies to cover losses by fires. The total expenditure for offices, brokerage and losses on policies amounted to about $150,000,000. This is a clear loss to the nation and costs each of the ten million families of the United States fifteen dollars per annum. It is a favorite idea with some European statesmen, Glad- from hand to hand to conceal the name of the real borrower.

stone and Bismarck among others, that each nation should monopolize its own fire and life insurance business. It would thus save salaries, costly buildings and premiums, and could fix such rates as to make it unprofitable for owners of dwellings and stores to burn down their holdings. Fully one-half the fires are the result of incendiarism.

Real Estate and Building, Past and Present.

In accordance with our usual custom at this season of the year, we give herewith a series of tables showing the condition of the real estate market during the past as compared with previous years. The retrospect is, on the whole, satisfactory. Realty as these figures show has had no such setback as stocks and manufactured products. The following table gives the number of transfers, the amounts paid and the average price per conveyance since and including 1873.

	No. of		Av'ge price
Year.	Cons.	Amount paid.	per con.
1873	7,175	$145,285,753	$20,248 87
1874	6,191	114,197,609	18,445 75
1875	6,347	99,025,562	15,601 95
1876	6,384	86,733,805	18,601 85
1877	6,179	71,469,285	11,566 49
1878	6,029	64,119,187	10,685 12

1883	9,692	160,849,303	16,596 09

But the above does not include the Twenty-third and Twentyfourth wards, in other words, the annexed district beyond the Harlem. In 1882 compared with 1883 the Conveyances for the whole city were as follows:

Conveyances. 11.042

1882		•		•		•					•		•							•		•	•					•		•	•		•
1883	 •	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•		•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•	•

Consideration. $174,653,227 165,192,848

It will be seen from the figures that while the number of Conveyances was about the same, the money payments were less; the average price of each transaction fell off from $17,119.21 to $16,596.09.

The large number of Conveyances for which there was only a nominal consideration will attract attention. It would seem to indicate that the total sum paid for real property was much larger than the figures given in the above table. But it must be borne in mind that in many cases the deeds recorded in the Register's office are misleading. Dishonest traders and speculators put in fictitious sums to sell out to ill-informed purchasers, or to secure loans at exorbitant valuations. In many cases where the sale is called nominal there is really no consideration, the property passing 2

From the above figures it will be noticed that although last year, as a whole, compares very well with the previous year, yet the last six months of 1883 shows a decided falling off. The year we have just entered upon does not promise to make a good comparison with either 1882 or 1883. The following estimated classified table is also interesting:

The plans for alterations to old structures filed during 1883 represent an aggregate in cost of $4,540,885, against $4,267,181 for the previous year.

For the purpose of showing the rapid growth of the city, as represented yearly in the plans filed, the following figures for the last ten years are given. These relate only to the estimated cost of new buildings in the years named :

A city paper argues that the actual cost of houses is much larger than the estimates, and therefore that the official figures are mis leading. Now, it is quite true that in great building enterprises, such as apartment houses, churches and the like, the architects' estimates are nearly always below the true figures; yet it is also true that some of the plans filed are never even commenced, and when builders construct their own edifices they often cost less than the official estimates at the Building Department.

But the above figures show that New York is growing rabidly. There may be a check for a year or two, but there will be no step backward. There will not be sominy costly houses built this year, perhaps not next year, but there will be a great deal of building notwithstanding, more than in any other city in the Union.

for which he paid a higher price than he ever may receive for it, and he purchased Ontario & Western at 32 for which there is now scarcely any market. Yet this builder is a cautious, careful operator. Had he continued building he might have lost some money, but nothing like the sums his stock operations have cost him, and his experience is that of thousands of others. The moral to be drawn from this example is that although the outlook in the building trade may not be very good, it is far better than the prospects in Wall street. A shoemaker should stick to his last.

Some Up-Town Buildings.

It is difficult to talk about Mr. Villard's house without going into reflections, which may be highly moral and instructive, but are irrelevant to architecture, the more that architecturally there is so little to be said about it. The scheme is of an unusual ampli tude and liberality and is very liberally carried out. The giving up of a whole block to three houses in the fashionable quarter of the city, is unexampled except in the Vanderbilt houses, where the three houses appear architecturally as two. The arrangement of the Villard houses is much better—a deep court with a house at the back and one on each flank—much more expressive, since the architecture distinctly explains the relations of the buildings, and abstractly more artistic since a proportion cannot exist with less than three terms or a group with less than three members.

Another great advantage that the Villard houses have over the Vanderbilt houses is that they have roofs, and although without roofs they would be as merely boxes as the others, the tiled roofs, although only of moderate pitch, give each of the three buildings some form and connect the three into a composition. Except in this general grouping, however, there is no more composition than in the Vanderbilt houses. The openings on the outer walls, on the projected ends and on the return of the walls in the court are equally spaced and aligned over each other. In the wall at the back of the court there is some attempt at composition. Below there is a logga of five round arches, turned between columns now boxed, but presumably of polished granite, and the openings above are grouped in three pairs. The simplicity of the treatment elsewhere is probably meant as a foil to this, but the simplicity is so pervading and the more elaborate treatment so little elaborate, that the foil is the conspicuous part, and makes the whole aspect of 'he pile dumpish and monotonous. This aspect is not relieved by the decoration, which is very sparing and consists chiefly of sinking the round-arched windows in panels, and decorating the spandrels in a conventional and somewhat tiresome way. The treatment of detail, as well as the general scheme, is suggested by the Florentine palaces of the fifteenth century. But the building lacks the massiveness of its prototypes, and the relation between the stories which made them effective ; and even the irrational application of "orders" would be an agreeable relief to its monotony. The horizontal divisions are emphasized, but this emphasis does not relieve the monotony of the facades which, assuming the existing division of openings, could only have been effected by a differentiation in the treatment of the different divisions. The joints of the basement are beveled, but that does not difference it sensibly from the wall above. A really bold and massive treatment of the basement, with an enrichment of the attic story, which is now only a series of square holes, would have effected this differentiation, even if the second and third stories were left as they are. The cornice is rich, but its enrichment is too small in scale to be effectual. The general effect of the houses thus is that they are big and tiresome and as unnoticeable as so big a pile can be. But then they are in no way offensive and can never come to look trivial or vulgar, and this, with the gratifying liberality of the plan and of its execution, must be scored as a mild success.

Directly opposite the Villard houses are the new residences or offices of the Cathedral, which are in the coarse and glaring white marble of which that great structure itself is built. The glare will disappear after a while, to be replaced by an unvenerable dirtiness. The architecture conforms to that of the Cathedral, and would not be noticeable except for the absurd way in which all grace of outline is destroyed by clapping on over the gables of the building a great black pan of a mansard roof. The little gable of a dormer. may be relieved against a roof in this way without offense, but here there are gables half as wide as the building, which have no meaning whatever, except as the ends of roofs, and when a mansard roof is clapped on over them simply stick out and look foolish. as confessed pieces of made architecture, besides destroying all the grace of outline which would have been gained if the buildings had been roofed as its walls assert that it was meant to be roofed. Whether this absurdity is the architect's fault-which is difficult to believe-or that of his client's, it is to be hoped that there is enough perception of architectural proprieties among the clergy and laity of the archdiocese to insist upon the removal of these monstrosities, which vulgarize not only the buildings they cover, but the more important building to which they are appendages, and to replace them with respectable roofs.

In Fifth avenue, between Fifty-sixth and Fifty-seventh streets,

After all, people who confined their dealings to real estate during the past year fared much better than those who put up margins on stocks, cotton, or grain. It is true some builders have lost money, and people who were forced to sell did not do as well as they could wish, but there was no such tremendous losses in realty as in stocks. A well-known builder went out of business in 1881. He foresaw that the high priced houses, with which his name was associated, would not sell as well as they had done in 1879 and 1880 so he drifted into Wall street and dabbled in stocks. He lost in the Western Union deal, he owns a thousand shares of Metropolitan, is a twenty-five-foot house with a visible roof, for which we are duly grateful. The roof is very simple, being simply a slope, not of an extragavant pitch, perhaps not more than 45 degrees back from the wall, but it is enough to take away the look of a screen from this wall and substitute the look of an enclosure. How comparatively respectable would even the brown stone front look if it were strmounted by such a roof and the sheet-metal cornice ripped away. Look at the old warehouses along the East River and compare them with their modern, flat-roofed neighbors to see what a difference this would make. Besides the roof of this Fifth avenue house, the wallis divided so as to give it some character. It is a basement and four-stories, a bay window running through two stories and taking up nearly two-thirds, the narrower division having the front door and a small opening over it corresponding to the second story of the bay. In the third story is a large open arch, giving access to the roof of the bay, which thus becomes a balcony, and a narrow opening above the doorway. Then comes an emphatic string course, and a fourth story of three grouped openings, round-headed, above the bay, and one similar opening on the narrow side. This conversion of the front into a single feature is effective, in spite of the neglect of the detail, which has no force, being unmodelled, flat and shallow, and imparting these characteristics to the front, which is saved in spite of them by having an intelligible division into superior and subordinate parts, and especially by being crowned with a visible roof.

Our Prophetic Department.

INVESTOR—Now, Sir Oracle, I want you to give me a general view of the situation, such as was published in THE RECORD AND GUIDE during January of last year. Those who have files of the paper, by rereading them now, will see they would have saved money had they followed the advice contained in your conversations in the beginning of the year 1883. I recall the warnings you uttered about the Northern Pacific securities and all the "wilderness" roads, and your prediction that the acceptance of the gold unit of value by the commercial nations would cause a steady shrinkage in all prices, as well as severe distress in all the money markets of the world. This has truly been a year of shrinkage and disaster, not only in the United States but in Europe. A writer in the Sun of last Monday quotes almost the very words you used last January. Says "Rigolo:"

The year which closes to-day will remain a memorable one in the annals, not only of Wall street, but of all the Stock Exchanges of the world. The depression of business is quite as great in Paris, London, Amsterdam and Frankfort as it is in New York. The tumble in prices has not been as heavy in English and German securities, but the American securities held abroad fell as much there as they fell at home, while France had a long list of stocks wiped out, and another quite as long showing a fall of 25 to 50 per cent. New York managed, however, to avoid a crash like the one Paris had in the beginning of the year, and went through the process of liquidation and depreciation in a gradual and orderly manner, which would be a cause for pride to much older communities. It seems almost incredible that a shrinkage of over one thousand millions of dollars in investment values should have taken place, not only without a panic, but even without any considerable individual failure.

SIR ORACLE—It is usual for journals to review the history of the past and anticipate the history of the future year early in January. But really it is not a good time for a forecast. Our business year commences with the gathering of the crops, and the prudent operator delays forming a judgment until a session of Congress ends, or until all the crops are gathered in and their value estimated. The political and industrial data is then in shape for guiding the judgment. Any forecast made now might be rendered misleading by some action of the government, while a crop failure would negative any hopeful view that might be taken of the situation.

INVESTOR—Will this be a "bull" or a "bear" year? If I had one or two hundred thousand dollars would it be wise to invest them in securities at present prices?

SIR O.-While I think that first-class securities are selling abnor mally low and while I believe there will be a better feeling soontemporarily at least, and while still further I hold that the purchase of first-class securities would yield a permanent profit at present prices, I must confess that I do not look hopefully upon the future. The United States depends for its prosperity exclusively upon its agricultural productions. This is the key to our industrial system. Increased acreage, large crops and good prices give us good times; a stationary acreage, moderate crops and low prices bad times. The former was our happy condition from '78 to '81. The latter has prevailed from '81 to the close of '83. Since 1879 our population has increased 131/2 per cent., our railroad mileage nearly 40 per cent., while the acreage under cultivation has only increased 91/4 per cent. Cotton production has increased but 4 per cent., and the production of grain in the same time has decreased 5 per cent. During this same period our manufacturing industry has increased enormously, but the exact figures will not be known until the census of 1890. In other words we have a larger non-agricultural population to support with a relatively lessened agricultural production, a smaller surplus to sell to the rest of the world and at lower rates. The nation is not getting richer, but relatively poorer. Hence the distress which will be continuous unless some unforeseen changes take place.

INVESTOR-Name a possible circumstance that might alter the situation.

SIR O.—A war in Europe would give us better prices for agricultural products and create a demand for our metals, firearms and other productions. And such war may occur next year, for European diplomacy leads to trains of dynamite. Then, if Congress should spend the national surplus and use our credit in building a navy or creating a merchant marine, in providing harbor defences and improving our waterways—in other words if Uncle Sam became a great employer, there would be an immediate revival in business. Again, should the commercial nations come to an agreement to rehabilitate silver and make it a money metal freely coined at a fixed ratio with gold there would be a revival of industry all over the world; but of these three possibilities the war is the only one probable, and that may be staved off. Put me down as a "bear" until some new general conditions changes the aspect of affairs.

INVESTOR—Please forecast what may occur should none of the three factors mentioned be brought into play.

SIR O .- There may be a rally in prices some time during January, but on the whole I look for a rather "blue" year up to the gathering of next summer's crop. Workmen are being discharged from all the great employing establishments, wages are being reduced, and this will result in a still greater stagnation in business. It is safe to estimate that there are some ten millions of working people in the United States; this includes men, women and children. Suppose the wages they have averaged is $15 a week. The hard times will throw many out of employment and reduce the wages of others. Suppose now the reduction in the wages paid should be $3 a person, that is $30,000,000 weekly, $120,000.000 a month and $1,440,000,000 a year, less money would be spent for the necessaries of life, This, in itself, is a terrific shortage, and at once affects the employing classes who produce for consumption. This will in time drive people from the large cities, and force them to go to work on the land. The hard times from 1873 to 1878, were a blessing in disguise, for during those six years the grain acreage increased 52 per cent. and the cotton acreage 33 per cent. Since 1878 the yearly increase of cultivated acreage has been only 21/2 per cent.

INVESTOR—These be rather gloomy views, Sir Oracle. Would not the liberalizing of our tariff help matters by giving us a foreign market for our now unsalable domestic manufactured products?

SIR O.—I see the Herald and other newspapers are harping upon free trade as a panacea for the present national ills, but I notice we were prosperous enough from 1878 to 1881 with the present high tariff. I believe myself in a more liberal scale of duties, but it is clear that revenue reform or approximate free trade will do us little good for several years to come. Should the House pass a revenue reform bill it may be negatived by a Republican Senate, or vetoed by a Republican President. It is very evident that a really radical reform of the tariff will be impossible until the Democrats have control of the executive as well as the legislative departments of the government, and even if everything should be favorable this cannot occur until 1886. Our concern is with 1884, and not with what may occur two years later. No, I cannot say that I look upon the immediate future as at all hopefully.

INVESTOR—Turning from the question of general prices, what is your forecast as to specialties, such as the cereals and cotton ?

SIR O .- The chances seem to me to be against holders of wheat. Our stock in this country is quite large, and although prices are very low there is no export demand. The fall of the year closed with the winter wheat looking very well, and it has a covering of snow which will protect it till the spring opens. Then all the world is now competing with us in sending small grain to the west of Europe. Russia, Hungary, Austria and Egypt is forwarding more yearly to the markets of the West, while India can be depended on hereafter for a relatively enormous supply. Wheat is kept up in this country in sympathy with corn, which is unexpectedly short, only some 400,000,000 bushels more than the year of the drought which killed the corn. I should not want to speculate on the "long" side of wheat, unless there was a foreign war. There is a shortage of cotton of over 900,000 bales as compared with last year, but the speculative operator is likely to make more on the "bear" than on the "bull" side. Those who use cotton clothing all over the world are not prosperous, and the markets are glutted. Should the French get into serious trouble with the Chinese there will be a fall in cotton goods, and raw cotton might temporarily, at least, be sold for 8 cents a pound. With the shrinkage of prices going on everywhere due to the operation of the gold unit of value you may put me down as a "bear" in everything. I say the wise man will convert all his possessions into money, which every day is growing in value.

Construction companies will not be so popular in the future as they have been in the past. They were a French invention, and the first use of them in this country was in the famous Credit Mobilier, which built the Union Pacific Road. Similar companies have been used in nearly every railroad constructed since that time. They have been so profitable that the stock was usually absorbed by insiders and its price rarely quoted. After the roads were completed the owners of the construction stock received handsome dividends in the bonds and stock of the new company. But the good reputation of any security is sure to be taken advantage of to exploit investors. First-mortgage bonds were so good a thing previous to 1873 that cautious investors did not fear to subscribe, as the bondholders up to that time got complete possession of the new road in the event of default, but the insiders in 1873 were so largely interested in the junior mortgages and stocks of the various new enterprises that the latter were kept alive at the expense of the firstmortgage bondholders. This was notably true of the Chesapeake & Ohio Road, the first-mortgage bonds of which corporation were scaled to help the other securities, which the bondholders naturally supposed would have been wiped out in case of default. And now the good reputation of construction stocks is gone forever, after the experiences of investors in Oregon Transcontinental and North River Construction. Both were in eager demand at one time, the one at 95 and the other at 130. During the last week these stocks have sold respectively at 30 and 20. In other words, they turned out worse than the wildest wildcats of all the so-called securities dealt in on the market. Railroads will continue to be built of course, but some other device than construction companies must be resorted to to swindle investors out of their money.

Register Reilly's attention is called to certain abuses which grew up under his predecessor's regime which should be promptly corrected. One of them was the practice of keeping back the publication of certain deeds in the interest of dishonest operators in real estate. As soon as a deed is sent into the Register's office for record it is public property and should be at once placed at the disposition of the profession and the press. But certain law firms and speculators, for objectionable purposes, have had the power to pidgeon-hole the deeds for weeks after they were entered for record. The daily press have not been aware of the fraud put upon them in this matter but they would make it hot for the Register who would wink at such practices were their attention called to it. Mr. Reilly is a popular man; he has been President of the Board of Aldermen and a member of the Board of Estimates and Apportionment. He has an excellent past and a promising future, neither of which he can afford to sacrifice in the interests of gangs of conscienceless speculators who seek to currupt his subordinates and shame him.

Concerning Men and Things.

It is said Mr. Abbey, while he will lose $60,000 by the opera, will make $400,000 by his Henry Irving, Mary Anderson and Grand Opera House enterprises.

George W. Van Siclen is coming to the front as one of the best posted real estate lawyers in New York. What he don't know about Conveyances, Mortgages, Land Associations, etc., is not worth knowing. He is a descendant of one of the old Dutch families which first settled upon this island.

The theatres are nearly all in a bad way. The Star Theatre, Wallack's, the Grand Opera House and Madison Square are the only ones which pay expenses. When times are depressed caterers for the amusement of the public are the first to suffer. The theatrical business has been rather overdone in this city of late years, yet the out-of-town companies have done worse than those which appeared in the metropolis.

The Sun office is furnishing candidates for all sorts of official positions. One of its editoral writers, Mr. Bartlett, is now a Supreme Court Judge. Mr. Hendricks, one of its reporters, came near being elected Mayor of Brooklyn, and now Amos Cummings is spoken of by the Times as an Aqueduct Commissioner in place of Mr. Lane. This candidate has a very peculiar reputation. He is a first-class humorist, was a friend of Tweed's and was retired from the position of managing editor of the Sun by Mr. Dana, because—well—because water is not Mr. Cummings, strong point.

Miss A. Hooper, the daughter of the famous Paris correspondent, Mrs. Lucy H. Hooper, is on a visit to her own country, which she has not seen since she was a child. She is a bright, handsome brunette, a good amateur actress and reader in French and English, and an unusually intelligent as well as charming young lady. She reports business in France as being very bad. The Republic, she thinks, will last some time longer, not because the people like it but from the fact that there is no one imposing personality among the imperialist or royalist leaders to rally the nation in opposition to the anarchial factions who are now mismanaging the French nation.

General Horace Porter is considered to be one of the most humorous after-dinner speakers in the country. Unlike Chauncey M. Depew, his rival, he rarely says anything sensible or solid. His forte is amusing exaggeration, delivered in a grave and unconscious manner. His afterdinner efforts, however, never equalled the wild extravagance of his statements touching the value of North River Construction stock. He gave repeated assurances that it would finally be worth $200 a share to the fortunate holders; yet this same stock sold recently for $20. This has proved rather a serious joke for those who did not understand the peculiar character of General Porter's humor. He is, it seems, one of the men the poet speaks of, who can "smile and smile" and be—a railroad presiden!.

The successful defiance of the Sunday laws by the committee who had charge of the Bartholdi*Loan Exhibition practically settles the question of the secularization of the Sabbath so far as picture galleries and libraries are concerned. The first to interfere with our Sunday laws were the opera impresarios, whose concerts were often nothing but operas in disguise. The Bishop exhibition of American pictures is now open every Sunday and it is understood the water-color exhibition will follow the new precedent. In Boston the free library is open to all comers on the Sabbath, and whether the fact is to be regretted or not the tenlency in all large cities is to make the seventh day one of recreation rather than of exclusive religious observance. The churches themselves have helped this tendency by intermitting afternoon services and the attention they have paid to furnishing choice music to church goers. It is art, musical and pictorial, which has become the rival of the religious instinct as formulated in Sabbath observances.

The Suburban Rapid Transit Company and Its Future.

The following interesting conversation recently took place between the writer and a director of the Suburban Rapid Transit Company. There was no thought of an interview on either side when the conversation commenced, but the talk was of so important a character that the writer thought that the readers of THE RECORD AND GUIDE should know its substance. The verbal accuracy of the following conversation is not vouched for, but the substance of what was said is, it may be stated, fairly and fully given.

WRITER-Why the delay in beginning the Rapid Transit Road in the annexed district?

DIRECTOR—There has been no delay except such as was inevitable in the presecution of a really important undertaking. The key to the situation was a bridge over the Harlem River at Second avenue. This is now under way, and the piers will be in place by next October. This is the most serious part of the construction. Indeed we have already been delayed a month on account of the defects of the river bottom, which necessitated dredging in order to commence the foundation of one of the piers. The bridge will not be completed until the spring of 1885.

W.-Who will own this bridge and what corporations will have the right to use it ?

D.—It belongs to our company, and arrangements will be made permitting the New Haven Road to use it. I suppose that under the general railway law any company which has tracks laid to the Harlem River adjacent can have the use of the bridge, under an equitable consideration to be fixed by arbitrators.

W.—But what other impediments were in the way besides the lack of a bridge ?

D.—Well, to be quite frank, the Manhattan-Metropolitan imbroglio has retarded our work. Had that been settled a year ago we would have been under full headway, for the slightest consideration will show that the Suburban Rapid Transit Road must have direct affiliations with the elevated system of this city to be of any value to its stockholders or the public. Take, for instance, this matter of the bridge. The Manhattan Company controlled the southern side of the Harlem River and we had to get its consent before giving out the contracts. Mr. Jay Gould was seen finally, and he consented. He told us to go ahead.

W.-What, in your judgment, will be the issue of this Manhattan-Metropolitan fight ?

D.-I know the people on both sides, and have had a good deal to do with law, lawyers and courts during the past five years. I have, moreover, followed the case before Judge Van Brunt with the greatest care, and I believe the Manhattan Company will score a complete and overwhelming victory. Jay Gould's head is very level. If there was any conspiracy Kneeland and his friends have failed to prove it. I would not be surprised were Judge Van Brunt to dismiss the case before the defence was heard. Whatever moral grievance Mr. Kneeland and his friends may have they legally have not a leg to stand upon. As a matter of equity the Metropolitan cannot claim to come in upon equal terms with the east side elevated. It is the latter which is doing the enormous business. The Second avenue road of the Metropolitan nets a heavy loss, while the Sixth avenue part of the system-being much longer than the Third avenue road-pays only a small profit. There is no equity in the demand of Kneeland that it should be treated as well in the final distribution of profits as the east side road. Indeed, as I understand it, the Metropolitan people only demand eight per cent. guaranteed, but the Manhattan party-headed by Gould-offer only four per cent. Should the Metropolitan be beaten by showing they have no case, before Judge Van Brunt, a basis may be offered for settlement, and the Metropolitan may get six per cent. But Mr. Gould is a very hard man at a bargain, and he said from the first that this matter must be fought out and settled by the courts.

W.-But is not the prospective value of the Metropolitan system quite as great as that of the east side elevated ?

D.-Wby, sir, the business on the Third avenue line is growing enormously. The trains are in each other's way. Indeed, it can no longer be called rapid transit, as it takes forty-five minutes to go from South Ferry to the Harlem River. The people of Harlem and the annexed district want something much quicker than this, which in time may be supplied by the Second avenue elevated road. When the bridge over the Harlem River is built, and the New Haven and other roads are connected directly with the Second avenue system, I-suppose that the latter will then become remunerative—largely so, for it will no doubt have through trains, or at least trains that stop at intervals of one or two miles, and which will convey passengers from the Harlem River to South Ferry in twenty to twenty-five minutes. Now you can understand why we have been delayed in the construction of the bridge. The Manhattan people probably did not want the full capacities of the Second avenue road to be developed until the law suits were ended. If the quarrel should finally be referred to arbitrators, or argued before the Court of Appeals, it was what the Metropolitan had earned, and not what it might earn under changed conditions, which would be the basis of settlement. The New York Elevated, bear in mind, does the largest business, considering its length, of any railroad in the world.

W.—You have had a good deal of local opposition to fight. What was the difficulty with John B. Haskin & Company? Where was the point of their criticism ?

D.—They wanted a line up the Third avenue on the other side of the bridge. That is, as you know, an eighty-foot street, and had we adopted that line, the company would have been ruined. We took legal advice and were assured that every owner along the line of Third avenue would have a just claim for damages. Hence in laying out a route for the Suburban Rapid Transit we have purchased the right of way or secured it, and through regions as yet unsettled, where there is no chance for claims of damage. The wisdom of our course has since been justified by the verdict which has been rendered against the Manhattan Company by Judge Ingraham and the jury, which assessed damages for losses claimed by a physician on Fifty-third street and Sixth avenue.

W.—And you really think that wherever injury to property can be proved that the elevated roads are liable to damages ?

D.-Yes; that is my judgment.

W.—But as the elevated system has been of vast advantage to the city, as it has increased the value of property on the East and West side, do I understand that while they are liable for the damage done they get no advantage from the property whose value they have increased ?

D.—That is the way in which we understand the law. It is hard upon the "L" road, but in drawing our plans for the Suburban Rapid Transit we have kept this in mind. Hence we have paid no heed to the protests of those who insisted we should run the risk of these heavy legal claims for damages.

W.-When do you expect to commence work in earnest on the actual construction of your lines ?

D.—Just as soon as the legal complications between the Metropolitan and Manhattan systems are settled. We will connect with the former system at One Hundred and Fifty-fifth street, with the New York & Western, as well as the Harlem Road, and with the Second avenue elevated.

W.-You spoke a short time since of other roads using the Second avenue bridge.

D.—There are, as you must know, a number of projects for new railways connecting distant points with New York. There is the New York, Danbury & Boston, in which Major Bergholz is interested; the East River & Connecticut (here the director mentioned five other companies, the names of which the writer does not recall). Representatives of these organizations wanted us to make special terms with them. They must all use our tracks to get access to New York city, but we have declined all entangling alliances, and have referred applicants to the general railway law, which forces us to connect with any company, after a fair basis of settlement is reached by arbitration. Undoubtedly this will be a source of profit to our road when constructed, for New York is extending its relations with many other parts of the country not now reached by railways.

W.—What is your judgment about rapid transit in Brooklyn. Will that system, when built, connect directly with the New York system via the Brooklyn Bridge ?

D.—There will be trouble in view if this enormous business is added to that already crowding the east side elevated. I do not think there will be any immediate connection of the two systems, but Brooklyn will, of course, have its elevated roads.

W.-How about the proposed cable roads in New York city ?

D.—I do not know much about them, but if they will supply facilities for transportation on the west side up-town, along the piers of the two rivers, and on transverse roads running east and west, they will be a great public benefit. We want some kind of rapid communication on at least twenty streets, running from the East to the North River, and between the Battery and Harlem. When that is accomplished New York will be the most convenient city in the world to live in, to visit, or in which to do business.

W.—Upon what theory is the Astor family purchasing property north of the Harlem and midway between the Hudson River and Hell Gate channel ?

D.—The Astors believe that the line of the finest improvements will continue along Broadway to the Harlem River and across the latter through the central zone of the annexed district. In this, I think, they are mis_ taken. It is the cheap lands beyond the Harlem which will first be taken up. The purchasers and occupants, who will first settle in the 23d and 24th Wards, will be people of small means, who will want cheap and not high-priced property.

W.—I think I understand. Your Rapid Transit Company will think more of numbers that of the wealth of the new settlers along the line of your roads. A carriage community living in detached houses would not be as profitable to you as poorer neighborhoods more densely settled. My own impression is that population will first thicken near the stations of the Suburban Rapid Transit Line. It will repeat the experiences of the elevated road systems in New York. The lands easiest of access will be first built upon. Unless the Astor property has good railway facilities it will not advance in value so rapidly as more eligibly located estates.

Home Decorative Notes.

—A subject that is always interestingly discussed in the household is that of home furnishing; we hear the advice given, to be original and not be satisfied with the mere imitation of what our friends do, that is all very well in its way, but originality should not be attempted until one has gained confidence from experience and with earnest study learned first to copy well,

-The satin straw baskets in colors of pink, blue, cherry and brilliant yellow are very tasteful for holding flowers, the roses or flowers used should present a striking contrast, for instance, the cherry baskets are filled with pale pink roses and ferns, the pink with red violets are exquisite for the yellow baskets.

-One of the fancies of the day is to have innumerable scrap bags and work bags scattered through the house, they are made in every style and material, a very pretty one may be formed by taking a pink satin fan and fastening it together at the sides with a satin bow, narrow ribbon should be run through the sticks and caught together by loops of ribbon—a tambourine with silk pocket attached is also a pretty design.

-Numerous and passing strange are the designs for inkstands and pencil or pen racks in olive wood, rabbits, sofas, bicycles, music stands, grand pianos, etc., two umbrellas crossed and placed in the form of an easel and having three tiny umbrellas arranged for pencil case, pen holder and ink eraser is quite a novel design.

-Lovers of art will find a rare assortment of choice paintings exhibited by L. A. Lanthier, of No. 6 Astor place, several admirable examples of G. Michel, Jules Dupre and the muddled harmonies of Monticelli deserve special notice. There are also displayed many attractive works of art in bronzes, old tapestries, chime clocks, and antique furniture.

-A more satisfactory effect will be obtained if drawings or engravings are separated by brackets supporting statuettes, vases, etc.

-The china department of R. M. Brundige is replete with single pieces or sets of Minton, Copeland or Dresden ware, decorated in new and novel designs, dainty castors in the Doulton ware, mounted in silver, exquisite tiny cups in Dresden ware for black coffee, and the Victorian or hailstone ware, called from its close resemblance on the surface to hailstones, attracted especial attention.

-A very rich smoking set in brass has the design of a ram's head with polished black horns; a tiny brass bell, which hangs from the ram's neck, forms a match safe; the pedestal, with open lid, an ash receiver; touching the ram's brazen tongue the top of the head opens and discloses a receptacle for tobacco or cigars.

-The American Specialty Co., under the Fifth Avenue Hotel, offer numerous and beautiful designs in leather goods, card cases of alligator skin, the antique and Japanese leather with designs of bugs, flies, butterflies, etc. Kid cases in the form of a folded glove are unique. The leatherette mouchoir cases and glove boxes, with various decorations, are quite attractive.

-A plush table-cover, with fans applied, which are made of colored silks, embroidered with various fancy stitches and finished at the top with a ruffling of white lace, produces a happy result.

-Beauty of surrounding has taken a strong hold of all classes, and the skill and good taste of the decorator and furnisher has attained wonderful excellence, at the rooms of Degraaf & Taylor, of 47 West Fourteenth street, are displayed beautiful plush upholstered drawing room chairs with ornamentation in relief embroidery; richly carved colonial tables with legs terminating in claws and the Shakespeare tables with twist legs and mountings of brass.

-Trailing plants give a cheerful appearance to a room, particularly when cultivated to climb over picture frames, pedestals, statuary, etc.; the prettily decorated china vases with flat backs can be hung over or beneath a picture frame and into this put the plant; the balloon vine is a beautiful climbing plant and the Madeira vine thrives splendidly, creeping wherever trained, and forms a thick lattice work if allowed to run over windows.

-An attractive design for a pale stone gray felt table cover is an embroidered border wrought of scarlet pinks intermingled with the delicate green leaves of trailing smilax for the corners.

-The old-fashioned Canton crepe shawls (more particularly the red or blue) that have been for some time relegated to the cedar chest may now be brought forth and used to drape easels, and for other hangings; the result is surprisingly effective.

-The antique Daghestan rugs are by far the most desirable and elegant, they adhere closely to the conventional geometrical patterns and have a vast range of color—no two can be found alike, there may be a predominance of some one color, but upon close examination the tints harmonize with each other in the most exquisite manner, causing the surface to appear almost metallic in lustre and soft as velvet.

-As it is always desirable to distribute light about a room and diminish all shadow, the hanging candelabrum may be brought into service. A very charming design consists of three very finely polished horns, tipped with gold and furnished with receivers; it is suspended from an ornamental arm which projects from a horn bracket, and the whole is attached to the side wall.

-Since whatever is antique is new and fashionable, old pieces of furniture, stored away for years in garrets are brought to light, and, with a few touches of modern color and materials, something very attractive is the result. The old-fashioned rockers so dear to our grandmothers, with the addition of plush cushions and a bow of ribbon fastened here and there, are very inviting and betoken comfort and ease. Many tempting pieces of modern furniture, copied from antique designs, are offered by Doremus & Corbett, of No. 148 West Twenty-third street.

The Ludlow Geneology.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

I was interested in your sketch of the life and ancestry of E. H. Ludlow in the last week's issue of your paper; but there were some interesting facts omitted in that narrative. Had your writer consulted Burke and other authorities he would have found that the Ludlows can trace their lineage to Edward I. of England. They descended from Margaret, daughter of Philip III. of France, who was the second wife of Edward. Among the descendants of this couple was an Earl of Norfolk, Lord Segrave, Lord Mowbray, a Lord Delawarr and a Lord Windsor, whose daughter, Edith, married George Ludlow. The latter's son was the grandfather of Edmund Ludlow, the regicide, and by his second wife he was the great-grandfather of Gabriel Ludlow, who settled in New York in 1694, and who was the direct ancestor of Edward H. Ludlow, the president of the Real Estate Exchange. The American branch of the Ludlows were a prolific race, for, according to Mrs. Lamb, in her "History of New York," ten, twelve and even thirteen children in a family were not uncommon. According to the same authority they intermarried with the best known families in the early annals of the city, as, for instance, the Goelets, Livingstones, Morrises, Bogarts, Gouverneurs, Duncans, Harrisons, Lewises and others equally noted.

Then mention should be made of the famous Ludlow mansion, No. 9 State street, which ran through to Pearl street. It was built towards the end of the last century, by Carey Ludlow, and was occupied by John Morton, his rich son-in-law, for over a quarter of a century. It was an immense house, with twenty-six apartments, and was the scene of many notable entertainments. Among others, of a great ball given to Lafayette in 1824.

I notice among the subscribers to the Real Estate Exchange the names of many families who won honorable renown in the early history of New York. Among others, the Crugers, Hamiltons, Roosevelts, Aspinwalls and Astors. Would it not be well to have these names reappear in connection with the government of our city ? Our foreign, more especially our Irish, naturalized citizens have had their innings in ruling the metropolis for a very long period. Why should not the influence of the new Real Estate Exchange be used to bring the representatives of our historic families again into prominence, as Mayor and heads of important city departments ? ANTIQUARIAN.

An Extraordinary Increase in Values.

The commotion raised in Richmond County by the proposition to sell the Seaman's Retreat property, in the village of Edgewater, to the United States government, for use as a marine hospital, has been made manifest through reports in the daily press. But the subject has hardly yet received the attention that it deserves. Of course it is preposterous to talk of permanently locating a hospital, into which contagious complaints must frequently find their way, in a district already densely populated, and only to be reached over routes of travel thronged with passengers at all hours of the day. This is the first suggestion that comes from the proposed transaction; but when the subject is investigated there appears to be a suspicion of moral contagion attaching to the undertaking which should be as effective as the flag of a pest house in warning all trespassers from the infected premises. The shortsightedness of the scheme might be overlooked. We are in the habit of taking little thought upon the morrow in the vicinity of New York, and, at one point or another, are in constant hot water through the failure of some man in a past generation to realize that there was to be a hereafter. This is especially true along the water front. But in this scheme there is a suspicion of political jobbery and speculation which would make the plan, were it consummated, altogether unpardonable.

The Marine Society, in its personnel said to be a very respectable and responsible organization, came into the possession of this property, consisting of about thirty acres, lying along and in the immediate vicinity of the water front in Edgewater, only a few months ago, at a cost, in money and individual notes, of considerably less than $100,000. It was ob tained from the State. It is now proposed to sell ten acres of this land, reserving the water front, for which $30,000 have been offered and more than twenty acres of the remainder, to the general government for the sum of $250,000. Now, what the people of Richmond County would like to find out is the name of the United States Senator, member of Congress or other official of high rank, who has lent himself to this extraordinary scheme for bulling Staten Island property. They like to see the value of their water front property appreciate, but are a little bewildered at the extraordinary rise in values which seems to have occurred within a few months. They think, possibly, it may be due to the testimony of Mr. Franklin B. Gowan before the Rapid Transit Commission. But when they recall the fact that the estimate of Mr. Gowan was based on the value of Staten Island water-front property as a place for the transshipment of coal, and not for the location of hospitals, they are still a little confused in their efforts at accounting for the increase.

The entire property held by the Marine Society, if intersected by streets and divided into building lots, is believed to be worth more than $250,000; but the most sanguine appraiser would not regard the sale of the designated ten acres to the general government, at the price proposed, as anything else than a swindle on the public. In the view of these facts and the further fact that no hospital is wanted on the ground occupied by the Seaman's Retreat, this seems to be an enterprise from which all gentlen:en who wish the reputation of wearing clean hands would be likely to withdraw.

The formation of a bi-metallic union in this city, associated with such names as U. S. Grant, Franklin Edson, A. A. Low, A. S. Hatch, D. O. Mills, Henry Clews, Hamilton Fish, Robert Collier, L. M. Bates, James B. Colgate, John S. Newbury, and others equally notable, has naturally it. Such men as he are not over-burdened with modest sen attracted some attention in England. Commenting upon the call published by THE RECORD AND GUIDE to which the above names were appended, the London Bullionist remarks : "Bi-metallism continues to live in the minds of far-seeing and thinking men in England, Germany and Holland. We invite the attention of those persons who imagine bi-metallism is dead to the following prospectus which has lately been circulated in New York, and which has obtained considerable support and notice from the press of that city. It will be seen that in New York, as in the case here, the movement is supported by most of the leading financiers and merchants and also by many others."

What the Governor Says.

Governor Cleveland's message is a very common-place document. the production of a man who has no suggestiveness or initiative. Not a word has he to say about the reform of the local government of this city, nor does he seem to realize the necessity for any change in our laws affecting real estate. In the following paragraph he harps upon an old and well-worn string:

well-worn string: The tendency of our prosperity, he says, is in the direction of the accum-ulation of immense fortunes, largely invested in personal property, and yet its aggregate valuation, as fixed for the purpose of taxation, is con-stantly decreased, while that of real estate is increased. For the year 1882 the valuation of personal property subject to taxation was determined at $551,021,189 and real estate at $2,432,661,379. In 1883 the assessed valua-tion of personal property was fixed at $315,039,085 and real estate $2,557,-218,240. The present law permits, in the case of personal property, the indebtedness of its possessor to be deducted from its value, and allows no such deduction in favor of real estate, though it be represented by a mort-gage which is a specific lien upon such real estate. Personal property, in need more than any other of the protection of the government, when dis-covered, escapes taxation to the extent of its owner's indebtedness, though such indebtedness is based upon the ordinary credit in the transaction of business or is fictilious, and manufactured for the temporary purpose of evading taxation. But real property, the existence of which cannot be concealed, is, in contemplation of the law, taxed according to its full val-uation, though the incumbrance upon it easily divests the owner of his title, though the incumbrance upon it easily divests the owner of his title, though the interest and perhaps part of the principal must, as well as the tax, annually be met, and though if sold the amount due upon this lien must always be deducted from any sum agreed upon as the price of the land. land.

It is noticeable, by the way, that Lieut.-Gov. Hill in his address to the Senate urges that no action be taken to reform our city charter, yet as our readers know this is a vital matter to New Yorkers.

The Real Estate Exchange.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

I have no fear but what the directors of the Real Estate Exchange will manage it prudently. The business of their lives has been to take care of estates and make them productive; hence the site will be well chosen, the tenants responsible, and there will be no waste. So much is reasonably certain. But it is hard to change the habits of a lifetime. We require a nes departure in real estate dealings; the old methods are obsolete. First of all the laws must be changed, so as to get rid of the legal verbage in the deeds and the impediments to the rapid transfer of real property. This is a vital matter, and the Exchange must make itself felt at Albany this very winter. It could easily influence the daily press to give this matter the attention it deserves. The Exchange cannot succeed unless the laws are so changed that trading in real property is as easy and safe as buying and selling bonds and stocks. All our laws affecting real property need overhauling so that the public burdens shall be more evenly distributed. Why not make use of the members of the Exchange as a separate organization to help reform our land laws? There are at least a hundred of them whose names have weight with the public.

The Highest Point South of the Park.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

In your issue of December 22, you published an article in which reference was made to some houses now being built on West Fifty-seventh street, between Sixth and Seventh avenues: in this article it was stated in referring to the healthfulness of the location and the drainage, that this block is the "highest ground in the city south of the Central Park and is over 30 feet higher than at Fifth avenue.'

Now will you kindly inform me whether this is so or not, it is, of course, easy to see that the ground is considerably higher than the adjoining block, but I feel convinced that from 12 to 15 feet would more than cover the difference, and that it is impossible that this block at its highest can be any 30 feet higher than at Fifth avenue. Please enlighten me on this subject. BUILDER.

From actual measurement we learn that the block referred to is 29.6 higher at its highest point than at Fifth avenue.

Is He a Member?

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE :

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE: At the first meeting of the subscribers to the Real Estate Exchange one of the most active and noisy of the minority was Mr. Lawson N. Fuller. He interrupted the speakers, made motions and repeatedly tried to catch the chairman's eye. On looking over the list of members as published in THE RECORD AND GUIDE, I could not find Mr. Fuller's name. If not a member what business had he in the meeting? I have since understood that a good deal of the confusion was caused by outsiders, who were not members. X. Y.

The list as published in THE RECORD AND GUIDE was accurate. Mr. Fuller neither was nor is a member of the Exchange in his own name, and it is quite true that he tried to take part in the deliberations of the Exchange at its first meeting. Mr. Fuller is, however, a very publicspirited citizen, who, in his own opinion, is fully competent to manage any enterprise better than the gentlemen who have risked their money in it. Such men as he are not over-burdened with modest sensitiveness, but

Real Estate Department.

There was not of course much doing in the real estate market during the past week, nor will there be much activity until toward the close of the month, when rents will be the uppermost topic. Later on the auctions will commence.

Only six sales took place at the Exchange Salesroom during the past week, and the attendance was small.

The following shows the Conveyances and Mortgages recorded during the past week, as compared with the corresponding week last year:

The house is 40x40 with stable attached. The whole is offered for $100,000, and is cheap, as the prospective value is very great. The house, which would rent for $2,000 per annum, could not be built to-day for $20,000. It is near the elevated station at Seventy-second street, and all impediments to the construction of the Ninth avenue horse car road have now been removed.

Riker & Son, 998 Sixth avenue, have for sale some very choice lots on Fifty-seventh street between the new church and the houses now being constructed by the Jardine Brothers. This is one of the finest locations in New York for the construction of elegant first-class dwellings. The lots can be had cheap or on easy terms.

On Tuesday, January 8, Richard V. Harnett will sell in partition three parcels of investment property on Tenth avenue and Eighteenth street. They include stores and dwellings. On the same day Mr. Harnett will sell under foreclosure the house 85 Mulberry street.

Gossip of the Week.

There have been but few changes in the membership of the Real Estate Exchange and Auction Room (limited). Seats are offered all the way from $175 to $500 premium, the best bid we know of is $100 premium, which will be given at this office. A few sales have taken place at $150 and $175 premium. Any person who wants to buy or sell would do well to make application at THE RECORD AND GUIDE office, in every case giving the lowest price for which they will sell or the highest which they will pay.

Messrs. Dye & Castree have sold for A. R. Whitney the property Nos. 195 and 197 Franklin street, to Messrs. Holmes & Coutts for $38,000, and for W. Barnett, No. 93 Hudson street (leasehold), to B. F. Van Valkenburgh, for $4,000.

Mr. Patrick Fox claims the commission on the sale reported last week of 119 lots to Mr. Richard Arnold. It seems Messrs, L. J. & I. Phillips think the commission is due them. The matter may yet be litigated. When the Real Estate Exchange is in operation disputes like this will be settled without appeals to the courts.

The purchaser of the Stevens Mansion on Fifth avenue, the sale of which was reported recently, was Mrs. William C. Whitney, as announced by us some weeks ago.

An offer of $17,500 has been refused for the house and lot on the northeast corner of Third avenue and One Hundred and Thirty-eighth street, which was sold at the Exchange on December 28 for $17,000.

The four-story high-stoop' brown stone front dwelling, No. 29 East Seventy-third street, lot 15x80, has been sold for $37,500. Broker, W. P. Seymour.

Dennis Loonie has sold a lot, 15x100, with the frame house thereon, on the north side of One Hundred and Thirteenth street, between Second and Third avenues, for $6,500.

Louis Brandt has sold the three-story and basement brown stone private dwelling on the southwest corner of Avenue B and Eighty-fifth street, 17.5x50x87, for William Rutter to Charles Stahl, of Stahl & Jaeger, lithographers.

Brooklyn.

Pending the completion of the annual report of the Building Department of Brooklyn we give some valuable statistics supplied by Mr. Henry Campbell, the plan clerk:

The total number of new buildings projected is 2,688, of which 1,394 are frame and 1,293 brick, and one of iron. The total cost was $12,096,681. The wards in which the greatest activity has prevailed are as follows: 18th Ward, 424 buildings, 400 of which are frame; 25th Ward, 352; 22d Ward, 312, all of a good class, 240 being brick: 21st Ward, 29S buildings; 23d Ward, 266, all brick or brown stone; 19th Ward, 134 buildings; 17th Ward, 127, and 8th Ward, 163 buildings. The number of buildings completed during eleven months were 2,555, costing $11,960,327, distributed in part thus: 18th Ward, 413 frame, cost, $1,167,175; 231 Ward, 303 brick, cost, $1,956,200; 25th Ward, 311 brick and frame, cost, $848,225, and 22d Ward, 251, costing $1,541,546. There were 216 brick buildings erected in this Ward. The 5th Ward was at the foot of the list with only 4 buildings, costing $24,000. The total of buildings altered for the year was 801, costing $748,539, and the heaviest work was done in April, when 109 alterations were made, costing $88,005. The greatest expenditure for alterations, however, was in the month of May, when work to the value of $94,707 was completed.

W. F. Corwith has sold for Charles Pierce the lot,  $25 \times 100$ , on the east side of Manhattan avenue, 365.10 feet north of Van Cott avenue, to Charles Heuffner for \$1,250.

Out Among the Builders.

Paul F. Schoen has the plans under way for a large railroad depot, to be erected on the east side of Tenth avenue, covering the entire block from One Hundred and Twenty-eighth to One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street. The structure will be two stories and basement in height, the material being of brick and iron, and the dimensions 200x200. It will contain the machinery for the cable road to be constructed by the Third Avenue Railroad Company, on Tenth avenue, from One Hundred and Twenty-eighth to One Hundred and Fifty-fifth street, and which will also connect with the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street crosstown cars. An administration building, 57x48 feet in size; will be erected in the building proper, running from the bottom to the top story. There will also be a large elevator to raise the cars to the two upper stories, which will be used for their storage. The basement will contain the machinery, which will be worked by four large boilers, with a chimney 150 feet high. The cost to the Third Avenue Railroad Company will be about $175,000.

Alfred Zucker is the architect for the seven-story, basement and subcellar store building to be erected on the southeast corner of Greene and Bleecker streets, for Isidor Cohnfeld, as reported in our last.

F. Carles Merry has the plans for a two-story and attic stone and frame cottage, 52x40, to be erected at Pelham Manor, Westchester Co., for B. F. Corlies, of Corlies, Macy & Co., of this city, at a cost of about $9,000.

Isidor Cohnfeld, who owns the property on the northwest corner of Greene and Bleecker streets, contemplates the destruction of the buildings thereon, and erecting on the site a six or seven-story substantial office and store building for investment. This is in addition to the large store to be erected for his own business on the opposite corner.

We hear that Edward Conlon will improve eight lots just purchased by him on Forty-ninth and Fiftieth streets, 450 feet east Tenth avenue, by the erection of eight five-story tenements.

A. B. Ogden has the plans under way for a five-story brick and brown stone tenement, 38,4x85.6, to be erected on the south side of Fifty-fifth street, about 150 feet east of Second avenue, for James Williams, at a cost of $25,000.

Elbert D. Howes has the plans in hand for two five-story and cellar brick and brown stone tenements, with stores, 25x85 each, to be erected on the north side of One Hundred and Sixth street, between Second and Third avenues, for George Smith, at a cost of about $16,000 each.

The building which Mr. H. K. Thurber some time ago informed a reporter of THE RECORD AND GUIDE would shortly be erected for the New York Mercantile Exchange on the northwest corner of Harrison and Hudson streets, will not be commenced until May, 1885, owing to a liquor dealer holding property on the site objecting to vacate unless receiving a bonus of 10,000, which the Exchange declines to give.

Illegitimate Real Estate Dealings.

Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

I was much interested in the letter you published last week from a reputable lawyer, showing up the dishonest methods employed to sell poor property at high prices. But why did you not give the names? Such people should be exposed so that the trade would know and shun them. We require a law making it a misdemeanor to put a false consideration in a deed which is filed officially. Agenr.

A Card.

NEW YORK, December 12th, 1883.

We desire to call the attention of our patrons and the trade generally to the fact that we have opened a branch yard at the foot of Amity street, Brooklyn, near South Ferry, where Messrs. Spencer & Martin for many years were located, from which yard we will be enabled to supply all who need masons' materials in Brooklyn and vicinity.

In thus enlarging our facilities we intend to keep pace with the growing building interests of the metropolis and neighboring cities, and thus hope to retain the patronage of all our old customers, as well as to merit large additions from our Brooklyn friends.

As to our Brooklyn yard we would say that our Mr. Canda resides in that city, and was for more than fifteen years engaged in the same business as member of the well-known firm of Morton & Canda.

We have secured the services of Mr. Daniel Martin, so long and favorably known to the trade there.

Soliciting a continuance of your patronage, and promising fidelity to your interests, we beg to remain,

Yours very truly,

CANDA & KANE, Masons' Building Materials.

It is interesting to note, in view of the recent organization of our own Real Estate Exchange, that the St. Louis Court of Appeals lately, in the suit of Elliot against Merchants' Exchange of St. Louis, decided, after a careful review of all the authorities, that the seat of a member in a stock-

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS -The market for Common Hards has undergone little or no change from the situation as noted last week. Another holiday has broken up matters somewhat, but aside from that the disposition to operate was quite limited, and few buyers could be found feeling interest enough to even inquire the value. Heavy rains, followed by sharp cold weather, appear to have checked consumption generally, and this was in turn reflected upon the movements of dealers, and up to Thursday only one cargo was known to have been sold. This transaction, so far as it amounted to anything as a guide, indicated about former rates, though it would be hardly proper to call the position more than nominally steady in the absence of a good solid test. We find the general run of quotations named at $626650 for Jerseys, $67527for Up Rivers, and $7.25277.55 for Haverstraws, with P les valued at $1506450 moderate, as with no one to pur-chase it was useless to make any attempt at sending stock forward and in addition to this most of the barges were at this end of the route loaded, making a pretty full accumulation to meet any demand of an ordinary character should it arise. noted last week. FOREIGN WOODS.—In looking over the record of the year, we find that during the early portion of the season and indeed covering a very large proportion of the entire year, the condition of business was active and generally satisfactory. The two leading grades, mahogany and cedar, moved steadily toward and into the respective oullets for which they were peculiarly adapted and arrivals appeared to be so timed and ad-justed as to prevent anything more than temporary and unimportant accumulations in first hands. Other descriptions of stock also secured the average propor-tionate amount of favor and brought good prices, though, as usual, the business was confined largely to regular trade channels and did not afford many fea-tures worthy of extended comment, except that prades adopted to house trimmings, cabinet work, etc., always sold quickest and at best rates. LATH.-Immediately following our last report there was a drop to $2.50 per M., and this has been there was a drop to $2.50 per M., and this has been the highest figure since. We could find no one willing to admit anything lower, but none denied the dull condition of trade and the entire absence of interest among buyers. The supply here is in such hands as to prevent any direct effort to realize, but should the amount increase it would have a depressing influence and the indications are that even on the present of-fering moderately reduced bids would not be neg-lected. Like all other material at the moment, con-sumption appears to be rather small.

LIME .- There has been no change from the old stereotyped report on this market. Demand not active and finds supply enough to meet it, with prices standing in the former groove and steady in tone.

LUMBER,-Deliveries from yard have been somewhat larger during the interval since our last, but to a considerable extent were on back orders and there is really not much new business to advise. Buyers is really not much new business to advise. Buyers in fact are still in more or less doubt as to how far they can safely venture, and prefer for the time being to conflue investment to immediate and positive ne-cessities. Coastwise arrivals have come to hand moderately and irregularly, but when showing any-thing like fair attractions secured attention at steary rates. Shipping grades of lumber have of late gone out with much freedom and the reduction in stock thus made gives holders a firmer and more confident feeling. Most accounts from the woods continue to indicate a steady full cutting, and, as sufficient snow has fallen to accommodate the workmen, the chances for a full log crop do not diminish. It is, however, a little early as yet to calculate upon the cut and by the ime the running commences the supply may show up smaller. Eastern Spruce has a dull market. If supplies come board or merchants' exchange is property liable for debts. This is the rule in New York and in San Francisco, but in Chicago the courts have held the other way. The St. Louis judge in his opinion takes occasion to praise the excellent work on Stock Brokers, by Mr. John R. Dos Passos, of the New York Bar, justly saying that his treatise on that subj ct and on stock exchanges is a valuable and much needed contribution to the learning on the subject.

Notes and Items.

The Board of Aldermen passed a resolution on Monday authorizing and directing the Commissioner of Public Works to supply the County Court House with Rice's Patent Ventilating Apparatus at a price not exceeding $27,000, provided he deems the same to be effectual. The Board also approved of the site for a station-house on property belonging to the city on the north side of 67th street, 120 feet west of 3d avenue, 50x100.5.

Special Notices.

The iron works of Messrs. Blake & Duffy have turned out son.e fine work since that firm was established in 1882. Among the structures for which they supplied architectural iron work are the Forty-second street ferry house, North River; St. Cecilia's Church, Lexington avenue and One Hundred and Sixth street; the West Shore and Ontario & Western Roads terminal passenger station at Weehawken; the freightcar erecting and repair shops at East Buffalo, and the planing mill and blacksmith shop of the West Shore Railroad at Frankfort, N. Y. As will be seen from the card of the above firm, they supply bridges, riveted girders, iron roofs and all kinds of architectural work for buildings. Estimates can be obtained from them on application at their offices at Nos. 513 to 519 West Twenty-fifth street.

Theodore De Lemos, whose circular appears elsewhere, has been selected as the architect for completing the Eden Musee Americain, on Twentythird and Twenty-fourth streets, between Fifth and Sixth avenues. This gentleman was chief-assistant to the late Henry Fernbach, architect, and has now entered the profession on his own account, his office being at No. 1267 Broadway.

Stokes & Parrish have been awarded the contract for the elevator to be placed in the new residence of Mr. H. H. Cook, on the corner of Fifth avenue and Seventy-eighth street.

Attention is directed to the card on the fourth page of Orrin D. Person, who has furnished tiles for the roofs of the capitol at Albany, the houses of ex President Henry Villard, and the church on the corner of Eightysixth street and Fourth avenue; and he will also supply tiles for Mr. Hoyt's house on Fifth avenue, and Mr. Tiffany's house on the corner of Madison avenue and Seventy-second street. These are the Akron Vitrified Tiles, the only vitrified tiles manufactured, and suitable for all climates. Mr. Person solicits estimates on all kinds of fine roofing material and will give the best references. His place of business is at No. 169 Tenth avenue, city.

Many of the yards have reduced their accumulations and assortments some-what but are in no hurry to replenish, and there is also a noticeable slow and indifferent offering of spe-cial schedules. GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

CHICAGO. CHICAGO. AT THE YARDS —Business is in about the same con-dition as that of last week. The outward movement is at a minimum. There is no expectation of any in-crease until after New Year's. Many are closing up the year's business and taking account of stock. The weather lately has been very much all sorts, and un-favorable to doing anything in town or country. Christmas has broken up the week, and altogether affairs are as near a standstill as they could be and move at all The side tracks in the yards were never more bare of cars. A few yards report considerable shipping; one claiming to send out 25 car loads some days One house reports a December business of 3,000,000 feet; another of 2,500,00<sup>-1</sup>. It will thus be seen that lumber still "do move," in spite of the aver-age duness.

The dealers that make a special to the set of the store of the average dunes.
The dealers that make a specialty of carrying a supply of selects and uppers are feeling confident about prices. They think that no matter what betides choice lumber is not so large anywhere in the country at the business and finances of the country, the stock of choice lumber is not so large anywhere in the country at Albany, where the stocks are quite ample. The supply of good lumber on the Mississippi is meagre, it is claimed, so that already the stocks here are being looked to for the future. The stocks in Wisconship looked to for the future. The stocks in Wisconship looked to for the future. The stocks in Wisconship looked to for the future, in fact we have been upple and be found outside of this is city and Albany. Inquiries are constantly being received for particular grades of selects and uppers, in amounts that would clean out all there is in separate yards. Inch and a gwater B select is particularly scarce and a few good orders would use up the stock of the entire trade. Admitting that the consumption of good lumber may fall off the coming year on account of hard times, yet the weakness of prices. While common stock might be wather that we are having. The conditions on they rest from their labor long enough to contemplate the whole could hardly be more favorable. The ways are generally frozen, and there is snowen on the value work, and the individual set while for good handing. The skidded logs are being diotations now are that all the logs needed will be obtained. Every day brings to light the fact that the stock of the entire is and the set over is nearly everywhere large. With a favorable winter we shall be some what surprised if next season the log supply is not sole and the indications now are that all the logs needed will be obtained. Every day brings to light the fact that the some materially was merely buncomb. On some of the stock of the grader will be obtained. Every day brings to light the fact that the METALS .- The markets are generally quiet this week and without new features, and the trade are talking over the results of the past year. A detailed review of all the various descriptions of metals would occupy a great deal more room than we can afford to give, and indeed would be out of place in many cases give and indeed would be out of place in many cases as a building material. In a general way therefore it is simply necessary to record a slow distribution of pretty much every description of stock in the rough or crude condition, with a production and importation admost natural sequence a steady shrinkage on values. Indeed, cost has in many instances touched a lower print than in years without acting as a stimulus to trade, buyers feel ng safe in the manifulde of the supplies before them, and the certainty that many holders would be compelled to realize. Even the attempts to work up a speculative stimulus through or clual goods. Slow as the demand was, however, it that the total as great as for the preceding actual goods. Slow as the demand was, however, it that be to a size amount of stock, some of the specified of the total supplies before the total as great as for the preceding actual goods. The Plates have generally in hand to a fair extent, but the Trade complain some what of competition, and the necessity for figuring on a close and narrow margin. NAILS .- The market shows some irregularity on all influences and still fails to afford much satisfaction to the selling interest. When buyers want a suption to the selling interest. When buyers want a sup-ply they do not hesitate about opening negotiations but necessities arise too seldom and in too modest form to greatly benefit the situation, especially as accumulations in first hands are full. Valuations more or less nominal, but the tendency thought to be toward greater steadiness as the reduced production of the country by the closing of Western mills checks accumulation of st cks. We quote at $2.60@2.70 per keg for 10d. to 6d, according to size of invoice.

PAINTS AND OILS -There is almost nothing doing at the moment except in the way of a small job-bing trade, and it is a more or less nominal market for all kinds of paints, colors, etc. Holders, however, do not weaken in faith to an extent leading to forced efforts to realize, and about former prices continue to be asked. Linseed Oll meeting with moderatively active sale at about 56557 for domestic and 58660 for foreign Spirits Turpentine dull and rather easy still at 34@36, according to quantity, delivery, etc.

PITCH AND TAR.-A moderate inquiry is readily met and at about former rates, but sellers making no gain. We quote pitch $2.25@2.30 per bbl., and tar $2.50@3.00 do., according to quantity, quality and delivery.
