SEPTEMBER 13, 1884.

The expected cold wave has come at last, and the fall of temperature has been so rapid that fears are expressed of a possible "cold snap," which may injure the corn crop. Indeed frost is already reported in Dakota and Wyoming, and perhaps may be heard of further east before this paragraph is published. Still it is safe to assume that the corn south of the latitude of Chicago is practically safe in any weather contingency. The enormous interest involved in a good corn crop, and its excellent prospects, have led to oversanguine estimates of its good condition. A great deal of injury will be done, notwithstanding the hopeful talk, if there is frost anytime in September.

"Sir Oracle" explains elsewhere some of the considerations which make a great corn crop so important this season. It will make up for the deficiency due to the low price of wheat in our export trade and will largely increase the income from our provision export, not only next year but the year after. But there are other considerations that more directly affect Wall street. Corn is a far more important factor in increasing railway receipts than wheat. It is bulky and is generally carried a short distance, and hence subject to local rates, thus swelling the revenues of the railway companies. There will be no talk of railway wars after the cora crop begins to move, for the various lines will have so much to do that there will be nothing to dispute about. This year the corn movement in the Southwest will commence earlier than usual, as, tempted by the high price of corn, the farmers are stripping the stalks so that the ears may dry quicker than if they remained out doors to be mellowed by the cool air of the later

Speaking of corn suggests the name of Abram S. Hewitt. It is to the credit of that statesman that he realized years ago how important that crop was likely to become as an exportable article. He wished the government by all proper means to make foreign populations acquainted with the value of that cereal as an article of food. Since then great progress has been made in that direction. We have a monopoly of corn growing as of cotton growing, and the former is likely in the not distant future to compare with the latter in levying tribute on all nations with whom we have a foreign commerce. In casting about for a worthy candidate from New York, how unfortunate it was for the Democratic party and the nation that it did not think of Abram S. Hewitt.

There is a well-authenticated rumor in political circles that the leaders of the Independent Republican movement, as well as a number of the most distinguished Democrats, have united in a written request, asking Grover Cleveland to reconsider his letter of acceptance and resign in favor of some eminent Democratic states man whose public career was unspotted and whose private life was without a stain. The surprising result of the Maine election is said to be the occasion for this proposed coup d'etat. It is believed the nomination of Senator Bayard or ex-Senator Thurman would lead to the withdrawal of Butler and the easy defeat of James G. Blaine. The names of George William Curtis, Carl Schurz, Horace White, ex-Senator Eaton, of Connecticut, and several others equally eminent in public life are said to be signers of this unprecedented document.

Assistant-Secretary of the Treasury Coon has received a good deal of unmerited commendation because he refused to permit a public building to be begun in Minnesota which would cost more than the Congressional appropriation. Since the beginning of the government almost Congress has been niggardly in its appropriations for public buildings. All that could be done was to get inadequate sums voted, and then when the structures were half finished ask for more. This was the history of our New York postoffice, as well as hundreds of other important buildings. Secretary Coon's interference with the ordinary way of doing business may get him some cheap applause, but it will save nothing and do no good. The public and the press insist upon being humbugged by these pretences of economy in appropriations for public improvements, but the latter we must have and must pay for them.

The name of Alderman Grant is coming to the front as a possible Democratic candidate for Mayor. He has several qualifications. He has plenty of money and is willing to spend it, which will make him popular with the "boys," and he voted against the Broadway franchise being given away, which will commend him to the honest voters. Mayor Edson expects the support of the County Democracy and we really think he would make an excellent chief magistrate of the city under the amendments to the charter passed by the last Legislature. Freed from the domination of the Aldermen and responsible only to the voters he would make wise appointments and cut down expenses wherever he could. The Republican candidate ought to be Theodore Roosevelt. New York should have its young Mayor as well as Brooklyn.

The Commercial Bulletin does not see the point. "After the Aldermen are abolished, what guarantee," it asks, "have we that the single dictator who replaces them will not be chosen by the same corrupt influences?" Of course we shall run the risk of electing Mayors and heads of departments who are corrupt or inefficient, but when things go wrong we shall know whom to blame. It is easy to get at a delinquent Mayor, but a board is irresponsible. It has neither a body to be kicked nor soul to be damned. The path for reform in this age lies in taking away power from legislative bodies and entrusting it to executive heads. We must know whom to punish and whom to reward.

The recent defalcations in bank circles is unsettling the minds of a very safe class of investors. Heretofore wealthy men who have avoided the stock market have felt reasonably safe in purchasing the shares of banking companies, the quotations of which stood very high in the market. It seemed incredible that institutions, the stock of which was 50 or 60 per cent. above par, should be financially rotten, but the disasters to the Marine, the Metropolitan and the New Brunswick banks show that the very best credit is no assurance of wise or honest management. It is this class of investors who will hereafter put their money into real estate. Stocks have depreciated, bonds have become comparatively valueless, and the shares of banking and other companies of high repute have often become worthless, but realty, though subject to many legal burdens, is at least secure. It is safe from stock gambling presidents and absconding cashiers. This is one reason why we look for the steady investment of new money in real estate. The lack of confidence in stocks, bonds, banking and other corporate institutions will pour the surplus savings of the community into real estate, hence we confidently expect a continuance of the improved feeling in real estate not only during this but up to the close of next National Debts.

It is a curious and significant fact that in only two nations in the world is there any effort to reduce the national debts. Since the war we have been rapidly paying off our national obligations. In 1857 the national debt of Great Britain was £863,000,000, or about $4,300,000,000. This has been reduced to £750,000,000, or $3,600,000,000, but as Mr. A. J. Wilson writing from London shows in Bradstreet's, that in the meantime the local debts of England have increased fully $500,000,000 in thirty years' time, hence the burden is quite as great on the British tax-payer as when the national debt was at its maximum. But in other countries than Great Britain and the United States the increase of national obligations have been simply prodigious. The aggregate capital of the national debts of the world twenty-two years ago was in round numbers about $13,000,000,000. Since then the national and State obligations have swollen $15,000,000,000 more, that is $28,000,000,000 in all.

These figures are of special interest to owners of real estate in this country. All taxation for debt-paying comes finally upon land and labor. It is incredible that the people of Europe will ever pay the principal of the national debts now piled upon them. The time will come when the burden will become intolerable. But we present the phenomena in this country of a large and steady reduction of our national debt side by side with the great and growing increase of values in real estate. It is quite true that, as in England, our municipal indebtedness is steadily increasing and taxpayers would do well to organize everywhere to prevent these local burdens from becoming excessive. In the organic law of several of the States in the Union a limit is put to the amount of indebtedness that any city or county may incur. All the States would be wise to adopt some such provision. In Philadelphia the charter prohibits the spending of any money the is not already in the treasury. In other words a special tax must be levied in that city before a new improvement is undertaken. This checks improvements, but it lowers taxation. Our city finances are in anything but a satisfactory situation. We borrow all our money for current city expenses before we collect any tax. We are constructing new aqueducts and entering upon other improvements that will add steadily to our debt for the next ten years. It is to be hoped that the next reform movement will be to prohibit the creation of any debt and to arrange our finances so that we may pay as we go.

Our Prophetic Department.

INTERVIEWER—Why all this talk about the corn crop? It is only one of the many products of the country, and it has never figured very largely in our exports. The hay crop, it is conceded, is of more value. If our people did not raise so much corn would they not turn their attention to other products equally profitable?

SIR ORACLE-Corn is valuable to the United States for the same reason that cotton is. It is a monopoly with us. Cotton, the cheapest material for clothing, can be raised in many tropical and semitropical countries, but nowhere can it be grown so cheaply as in the Southern States of this Union. It requires a fertile soil and a hot, moist climate. These conditions exist in greater perfection over a larger area of territory in the Southern States than anywhere else on earth. Then we are near the great market for cotton, which is western Europe, and our railroad and water course systems have been developed so as to give us an immense advantage over India, Egypt and the other cotton-growing regions. So also with corn. It is raised in other parts of the world, but we have practically no competitors in the production of that most important of cereals. True it has not figured very largely in our exports so far, but corn is the basis of our meat supply for the rest of the world. The reason why Wall street looks so eagerly to the corn fields this year is because even in our foreign trade it will more than make up for the low price of the wheat we sell to Europe.

INTERVIEWER-I don't see how you make that out.

SIR O .- In that very admirable publication, the Railroad Gazette, there are some figures given which tell the story of the value of the corn crop this year from an export point of view. In 1869-70 our export of corn was worth less than two and one-quarter million dollars. In 1870-71 they reached $25,000,000. In 1875-76 the corn export amounted to $34,000,000. We reached the highest figure in 1879-80, when the corn export was valued at $53,-300,000. The drought of 1881 reduced our export for the last three years to less than $28,000,000 annually. does not tell the whole story, for corn is the basis of our provision export. This amounted to $146,200,000 in 1881. The next year it amounted to $114,800,000, in 1882-83 to $99,700,000, and in 1883-84 to $104,600,000. Now if the crop this year be nearly two billion bushels, as it promises to be, the effect will be felt for three years to come, both in our corn and our provision exports. It is estimated that we may not get more than a $100,-000,000 for our wheat export next year, but if we have 300,000,000 bushels of corn to export it ought to bring us $170,000,000, and then our provision export may reach $130,000,000. Corn furnishes the cheapest and most nutritious food for both man and beast; it is steadily growing in favor in Europe, and in the long run it will be a far more important product for us than wheat, for the latter is grown everywhere in competition with our farmers. have a practical monopoly of corn as of cotton.

INTERVIEWER—If we have a corn export of any magnitude, what then?

SIR O.—If we export as much corn and provisions in the year 1885 as we did in 1880 and 1881, it will turn the balance of trade in our favor and we may again be importing gold. The trouble with our new corn is that it does not come to market before December, and its effect on railway earnings will not be experienced before November.

INTERVIEWER—You scarcely expect then to see an import of gold this fall?

SIR O.—Some will come this way I think, but our cotton crop is not very large and it will be three weeks late, while the price of wheat is so low that it will not make much exchange. No, I do not think we shall import much gold this fall, but if anything happens to advance the price of wheat, we ought to import as much gold next spring as we lost last spring.

INTERVIEWER-What do you think of the news from Maine?

SIR O.—It is significant in a number of ways. The enormous prohibition majority marks an era in American politics. It is a notable fact that in every State where the stoppage of the sale of liquor has been an issue apart from politics or preferences for individuals it has had a majority of the popular vote. This has been as true of Iowa and Kansas as of Maine. I venture to say that if the question was put to the American voter shall the sale of spirituous liquors be prohibited as a beverage, that 8,000,000 out of our 12,000,000 citizens would vote for it. The liquor interest is very powerful, and is generally able to so manipulate State legislators as not to permit the naked issue to be presented, but despite the interested efforts of the brewers, distillers and liquor dealers, the question of prohibition has come into American politics to stay there for many long years. Humanitarian and sentimental questions have always appealed strongly to the American voter. We have now no political issues worthy of the name. Our party organizations are in an undisciplined and disruptive condition, hence the time is ripe for the discussion of a topic that appeals strongly to the humanitarian side of popular feeling. Prohibition may not hurt Mr. Blaine's canvass this year, but I misread the signs of the times if four years hence it will not be one of the controlling issues.

INTERVIEWER—I see the Herald thinks the Maine election so disastrous to Mr. Blaine that it confidently predicts Mr. Cleveland's election and goes so far as to make up a cabinet for the latter.

SIR O.—The editor who wrote that article was either a fool himself or he thought his readers were fools. It is quite common for conductors of inferior journals to underrate the intelligence of their patrons. But the average American voter is generally very shrewd. Political arithmetic is a favorite and a widespread study. Every politician knows that the Maine election indicates the final success of Mr. Blaine unless some unforeseen accident should occur.

INTERVIEWER-What are your reasons for so believing?

SIR O.—Every vote cast for the Republican tickets in Vermont and Maine was really a vote for Blaine. A ballot for the Democratic candidates for Governor was really cast for Cleveland. The final counting showed that Blaine in all probability will poll more than Garfield's vote, while Cleveland will not poll Hancock's vote. In the November election, St. John may get from 600,000 to 700,000 votes, the majority being from the Republican party, while Butler may poll 800,000 to 900,000 votes, two-thirds of which will be drawn from the Democratic party. Should Hoadley's majority of last year, some 12,000, be wiped out in the coming October election in Ohio, and I think it will, Blaine will have a walk over in November. He ought to be strong in Ohio, as that was Garfield's State. The one great element of doubt is the German vote. If the Republican Prohibitionists vote for St. John and the German Republicans for Cleveland even Butler cannot save Blaine.

INTERVIEWER—What would be the effect of Cleveland's defeat on politics?

SIR O.—It would, I think, induce parties hereafter to nominate their strongest leaders for presidential candidates instead of unknown men. It is now found that a dark may also be a spotted horse. For one, I am sorry for the Independents. Conscientious "kickers" are an excellent element in any party organization. They prevent a party from getting into evil sources, and are a restraining influence in every way, but men like Curtis and Schurz ruin themselves and their cause when they make choice of a weak or of an immoral candidate.

Interviewer—Granting that Blaine is chosen, will be make a good President?

SIR O.—I confess I am full of gloomy forebodings. He is a man of undeniable ability. He stands head and shoulders above the political leaders of his time; but I fear his ambition and his love of sensational statesmanship. He will pursue dangerous courses and will introduce into public life many conscienceless adventurers. The jobbers, I fear, will hold high carnival.

INTERVIEWER—Well, the election is not yet over and perhaps he may not be chosen.

SIR O.—You are quite right, it is never safe to be too sure of an election in this country.

How the public are humbugged by theatrical managers and the newspapers. Theo, for instance, is brought out as a star without a single quality to commend her to the theatrical public. She cannot sing and never could. She is a very ordinary actress; is not now good looking, for she is fat and over forty. Her only recommendation to a Parisian audience was her apparent demureness and innocence in saying suggestively wicked things. This gave a sause piquant to her otherwise ordinary histronic abilities when she was young and possibly pretty; but these latter attractions are no longer hers. Yet the papers persist in treating her as if she was an actress of some importance.

People who visited Niblo's Garden or the Star Theatre have been forced to pay tribute to the ticket speculators in the lobby, although neither establishment has been full since the first night; indeed, the so-called Seven Ravens has averaged little more than half houses at either place; but nearly one-half of the scant audiences have been fooled into paying extra prices for their seats. The original quarrel of the Kiralfy's with the managers of Niblo's was because of the alleged unfair distribution of the profits derived from the lobby sales when the ballet of "Excelsior" was running. The public ought not to countenance either house, for the outside ticket selling in both establishments is downright swindling.

The English High Court of Justice, Chancery Division, lately refused an injunction asked by an owner of a well against the owner of another well 99 yards off, to restrain the latter from using his well as a cess-pool, as a result of which the water in the well of the former was contaminated and rendered unfit for use; it appeared that both wells must have had a common source of supply; but the Court found that if the complainant did not pump water from his own well no polluted water would flow into it from the defendant's well and that thus the polution was owing to his own act. Rather refined reasoning.

Home Decorative Notes.

- —If you are desirous of winter window gardens now is a good time to start them; slips give much better satisfaction than the old and stocky plants.
- —A very pretty brush broom case is made by taking a small Japanese fan for the foundation, cover it with blue silk, then cut a piece of pasteboard of the size of the brush broom, cover it with silk and fasten it to the fan; suspend from the wall by the handle of the fan, which should be gilded.
- -Emory powder will remove ordinary stains from white ivory knife handles.
- —The South Kensington borders form an appropriate decoration for almost any article upon which a horizontal border is in character, they may be executed in solid embroidery or in a combination of outline and solid work; an effective design is a combination of flowers such as lilies and tulips with the scroll pattern; the scrolls should be in outline and the flowers solid and varied in color, imitating the natural tints of the flowers
- -Willow baskets which have become soiled or discolored may be made very ornamental again by bronzing or gilding them.
- -Moss may be secured to the outside of flower pots by wire, and if frequently watered will last a long time.
- —Portieres of deep old gold plush are handsome with a band of copper bronze plush, embroidered with a design of dull blue lotus blossoms.
- —A unique photographic frame is in the shape of a Gothic gateway, brickwork and ornaments being alike carved in hardwood, oak or mahogany
- —The German linen embroidery is specially suited to scarfs of various kinds, sofa backs, buffet covers, etc.; the material used for the ground work is white linen; the outline of the designs are all defined in stem stitch, with either blue or red cotton; sometimes a double line is made with white cotton, which adds greatly to the general effect; the ends should be finished in fine drawn work and heavily knotted fringe.
- -Moths may be exterminated from upholstered work by sprinkling thoroughly the upholstered parts with benzine.
- -Bedrooms are now hung in one color and that generally delicate; fringes, cords and tassels to correspond are the only ornamentation.
- —Pretty newspaper racks are made of Chinese straw, painted in floral designs with oils, a bunch of poppies forms a bright decoration.
 - -Wall paper in imitation of tapestry is now made.
- —An effective mantel lambrequin for a boudoir may be made of India red cloth, on which are grouped alternately circles cut out of Indian red plush and satin, in one group the plush overlies the satin, in the next the satin is above; when fastened in place by means of gum or of basting threads these circles are secured by a couching of gold thread, and stitches of gold thread of unequal length, the effect of the design may be heightened if a conventional flower is worked in silks here and there in the circles, when finished line with satteen and edge with silk tassels and brass crescents.
- -Parquet or ornamental hardwood flooring is now generally adopted in all houses that claim to embrace the modern improvements, or are considered in the first class of modern buildings.
 - -Sycamore is a popular wood for interior finish.
- —The Sheraton furniture is much admired for libraries, the desired pieces consist of a short sofa, square table and large chairs without stuffed covers; mohair, plush, leather and wool tapestry are the materials like, wise used for upholstered library sets.
- —Birch bark canoes were purchased largely by the ladies at Bar Harbor this summer to be used as simple German favors.
- —Many elaborate decorations for rich hangings are shown in floral designs in plush applique, a portiere of olive plush has a broad band of a lighter shade, with a large passion flower and palm leaves in the natural colors.
- —Broken china can be mended with a useful glutine made with a piece of old cheese mixed with lime.
- —Attractive frames for drawings or water color sketches may be very easily constructed at home in the following manner: first purchase a plain pine frame with a bevelled edge the size desired for the picture, give it a coat of glue size and while wet sprinkle with hominy or rice all but the edges, which are to be left smooth, when quite dry a second coat of glue is necessary, after a few days when completely dry gild it all over with gold paint, which can be purchased in bottles.
- -The latest decree of fashion is that hangings, whether for windows or doors, should not match.
- —Benares ware may be very readily cleaned by rubbing the article with a soft flannel dipped in lemon juice, and afterwards rinse in weak soda and water.
 - -Tidies have been replaced by a bow of broad ribbon.
- —Instead of carrying china or other plates in pic-nic baskets use the little plates of wood used in stores for butter plates, they take up less room and keep other plates from being nicked or broken.
- —Painting upon polished wood is one of the most effective methods of decorating; the background is not so glaring as a gilded one, and it can therefore be used much more abundantly about a room; the woods used are mahogany, black walnut, oak, pear and chestnut; when large surfaces have to be covered, delicate soft-tinted wreaths and arabesque patterns are the favorite designs chosen; for door panels select plants which naturally grow large and straggling, and paint them as if growing up from the bottom panel across the others; the hop design is most effective, and the morning-glory and fleur-de-lis may be used with equal satisfaction

Financial Points.

Wall street people are talking very seriously about the lively scenes that are about to take place in the Stock Exchange. The corn crop is to be the trump card in the next great game of speculation. In every quarter bull syndicates are forming with a view to putting up in their turn every class of stocks. Everything seems favorable, the coal trade alone excepted. The consumption of coal lags while the necessities of the Reading and New Jersey roads forces them to keep up production as coal at the dock is among the best of collaterals for a bank loan.

But apart from the coalers there is nothing in the way of the coming bull speculation. Wheat and cotton have got to come forward and our fifty-six million of population consume goods enough to insure a large westward movement of freights in the fall season. The corn movement will commence in earnest in November and its effect will be discounted from this time forth.

Next to the corn crop, the street expects that Mr. Vanderbilt and his following will supply a bull impetus of powerful momentum. Vanderbilts are natural bulls and their recent ventures as bears have not proved profitable. It is said their great card will be an announcement that Erie and West Shore have both become a part of the New York Central system. The old Commodore when living tried to secure Erie, but he was reaten in this by Gould and Fisk, who set their printing press to work and manufactured more Ecie stock than he could buy. The Vanderbilts admit that Mr. King is their man and they have driven their ablest enemy in the Erie road, Vice President Blanchard, out of the field. The West Shore road can be had whenever William H. Vanderbilt is ready to take it. With New York Central, Erle and the West Shore under what w uld practically be one management, the Delaware & Lackawanna opposition can easily be handled. Then will come the hurrah in the Vanderbilt securities and special deals will be made in their minor stocks, such as Erie & Western, C., C., C. & I., Alton & Terre Haute, etc. Although personally hostile, Gould and his contingent will help by advancing his specialties, Western Union, Manhattan and Missouri Pacific, etc.

The great corn crop will, of course, help all the western railways, but more particularly those running through Iowa, Kansas, Illinois, Indiana and Onio. St. Paul has less corn business than any of the Grangers.

It is also believed in the street that when the next boom takes place Gould will sell out his holdings and take that yacht trip. He has been quietly dropping out of the various directories, his son in some instances taking his place. The elevation of the latter to be vice-president of Western Union shows that his father is transferring to him some of his heavy responsibilities.

How to Improve Coney Island.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

Justly popular as is Coney Island, I think it could be made more so by utilizing the eastern section now practically unused and consequently a barren waste. Twenty years ago this eastern end was the only part of the island resorted to. It was then the watering place of the common people. The steamboat excursion cost only twenty-five cents for the Bathing cost twenty-five cents nearest the landing; but people with less money further along the beach could bathe for fifteen cents, while the "boys" by running up to where West Brighton now is could secure the luxury of a "skin" bath without paying anything. The clam chowders cost from fifteen to twenty cents. So far as expenditure went Coney Island was then all that could be desired for a poor man's watering place. Powerful railroad, steamboat and hotel interests now occupy those parts of Coney Island that were then a waste, and the splendid beach of East Coney Island is discriminated against. Some enterprising capitalis's or company ought to get possession of this east end and lay it out picturesqualy for the benefit of the poor people who have been forced for some years past to pay the larger figures demanded by the steamboat and railroad people on the middle and west end. A round trip now costs fifty cents, which is a heavy tax on a poor family.

Then on a sthetic grounds I object to the whole regions east of Brighton proper. Money enough has been spent in the neighborhood of the two great piers to make that section one of the most charming resorts in the world for people of modest means; but West Brighton and its surroundings is one of the most vulgar neighborhoods on earth. I don't object to the merry-go-rounds, the elephant and the artificial cow and not even the museums; but the whole region is so lacking in order and proper arrangement that it is positively repulsive.

Then the Iron Steamboat arrangements are very bad. I took a trip on one of the boats during the recent hot weather and it was cruel to see the way women suffered who had infants in arms. They were forced to stand by the half-hour to get on or off the boats, as there were not seating accommodations near the ticket posts.

Let us hope, Mr. Editor, that by next season the east side of the island may be utilized. It has a noble beach, and with one-twentieth of the money spent on West Brighton it could be made a very paradise of a watering place for poor people. It is a pity, by the way, that the whole of Coney Island was not purchased thirty years ago by the municipalities of New York and Brooklyn and turned into a summer resort for the people of both cities. It could have been laid out after some general plan as were the Central and Prospect Parks, and permits sold to railway and steamboat men, hotel and restaurant keepers—restrictions, of course, to be put upon the fare to be charged and the price of food. But it is too late for that now. Even as it is, Coney Island is a blessing to New York and Brooklyn.

OLD NEW YORKER.

Mr. Baranski had a store on Grand street, next door to the store of Rachel Scheyer, and the latter erected a show-case, sign and fence, 8½ feet high and 4 feet wide, out on the sidewalk in front of her store, which obstruction projected beyond the line of the adjoining building, so as to exclude from view Baranski's show-window and store from persons approaching from one side, thus excluding his customers from it, and tending to injure his business. Mr. Baranski tried to get an injunction, but the judge to whom he applied refused it; the General Term of the Supreme Court, Judge Daniels writing the opinion, have reversed this decision, however, and have decided that it was a proper case for an injunction, restraining the continuance and maintenance of the nuisance and illegal obstruction erected by the defendant.

About Staten Island Property.

The recent war between the Staten Island Rapid Transit Company and the Independent Steamboat Company has attracted a good deal of attention to Staten Island. It has been urged by the former that their system will greatly increase the value of property there. Thus far, however, no movement in realty, either improved or unimproved, has developed itself, nor have more than the ordinary number of new plans for cottages or other buildings been drawn. Mr. Alfred Z. Ross, real estate agent, Port Richmond, in a conversation with a representative of this paper, stated that he had had no inquiry for North Shore property in consequence of the Rapid Transit Company's accession to the ferry control. He was not sure that a monopoly of the ferry would be advantageous to the island. What was mainly required was cheap fares. If these were reduced to five cents, it would bring thousands of residents to Staten Island, who would much prefer the thirty to fifty minutes' ride through the bay than a journey of similar length on the elevated roads or street cars, not to speak of the less crowded and healthier location of the island. There were scores of office boys and young ladies who had to pay fifteen cents daily to get to their stores, and this made a great inroad into their salaries. It is true that commutation tickets can be had for $3.50, averaging about six and a-half cents a trip, but this is often too much for the young people to pay in one sum. Hundreds of New Yorkers come to reside on the island every summer, many of them staying from May till October. Most of these were business men, clerks in down-town offices and stores, some of them being journalists, lawyers, and so forth. When Mr. Wiman gets his railway running along the North Shore he will be able to transport passengers and traffic very rapidly to parts of the island at present almost uninhabited, and thus increase the value of property in those sections. can be no doubt, also, that a railroad will bring population and business in its track on Staten Island, just as it has done everywhere where it has been introduced. It is not to be expected that a "boom" will take place in property suddenly. This must be a gradual process, and the natural situation of Staten Island gives it shipping and harbor advantages which capitalists will not be slow to recognize.

Park Commissioner John D. Crimmins, in a talk with a representative o THE RECORD AND GUIDE, expressed himself as strongly in favor of taking away the heavy traffic from Fifth avenue, from Fifty-ninth to One Hundred and Tenth street, and turning it into a private road of the Central Park to be used by the same vehicles only that are permitted to pass the parkways. He says that residents on that part of Fitth avenue complain strongly of the damage done to furniture and house decoration, and the personal discomfort occasioned on account of the dust created by the brewers' drays, the wagons, carts and other heavy traffic pouring in from Sixth, Seventh, Eighth, Ninth and Tenth avenues from the west, and Second and Third avenues from the east. Property was greatly diminished in value in consequence, and were this proposed Central Park road properly laid out, with a row of trees on the east side of the avenue, and the carriage way limited to light vehicles, and laid out with a clean good pavement, it would enhance the assessable value of property on the route to such an extent as would more than compensate for any expenditure which might be made by the city for these improvements. Besides, the Central Park has become so popular a place for carriage driving that there is barely sufficient room at present, and the restriction of the upper part of Fifth avenue would be welcomed as an additional outlet for the vast concourse of vehicles which traverse the park every afternoon. heavy traffic might use Fourth or Third avenues, which are the natural thoroughfares for such conveyances, instead of injuring some of the finest property on Fifth avenue.

At a recent meeting of the building committee of the Real Estate Exchange and Auction Room (Limited), Architect Hatch made an official statement of the causes for the delay in the alterations in the Liberty street building. He said the work had been retarded by the failure of the Union Iron Foundry to make the necessary castings of the great iron girders which are to support the building above the hall. This had necessitated a loss of some six weeks' time. These girders were larger and stronger than anything of the kind in New York city and perhaps in the country. But they are now in their place and there will be no further excuse for delay. Mr. Cammann asked if the delay would not be compensated for by the chance it gave for the building to settle. In structures hastily erected there was danger that the settling of the building might create alarm, but where there was full time given for the progress of the work there was less danger of its causing trouble after its completion. President Ludlow asked the architect when he thought the building would be ready. Mr. Hatch declined to give any date. If it was a new building it would be easier to tell what time the work would be finished. But where new work was put into an old building it was difficult to foresee all the alterations that would have to be made. He thought, however, that the great hall would be ready for occupancy by the 8th of December, the date designated by the by-laws for the annual meeting of the stockholders. —Real Estate Chronicle.

About Our Newspapers.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

As an old journalist, having first commenced writing on the Evening Post in 1854, I am naturally interested in the newspapers of the day. I cannot very well help criticising our existing journals; the comparison they offer to those of a former decade is worthy of some passing remarks.

The daily press of New York was, I think, at its best when James Gordon Bennett, Horace Greeley and Henry J. Raymond were respectively conducting the Herald, Tribune and Times. These, relatively speaking, giants of journalism were instances of a survival of the fittest. They beat their competitors and came to the front by force of superior ability. The invention of the telegraph, however, led to the institution of a monopoly of telegraphic news. This gave the then existing journals a status irrespective of the ability with which they were conducted. When Bennett, Greeley and Raymond died and their papers fell into other hands as inheritances and the law of the survival of the fittest was set aside the result has naturally been that neither the Herald, Tribune nor Times possess anything like the influence or authority they wielded during the lives of their founders.

But the ownership of the Western Union Telegraph by Jay Gould led to changes that have broken down the Associated Press monopoly. In order to increase the revenues of the telegraph company, the newspapers have had the privilege of ordering specials at very cheap rates. The result has been an immense development of special telegraphing. The Associated Press dispatches have no longer any peculiar value. This has resulted not only in the starting of many new papers, but also in the differencing and individualizing of the older journals so far as the news is concerned. In other words there has been competition. Cheap publications have entered the field that have proved so attractive as to run up large circulations. The older papers have been forced to meet this competition by reducing their price one-half, and adopting some of the more popular features of their new rivals in the field of journalism.

Details of their new rivals in the field of journalism.

But the result is not satisfactory; there in no paper in New York that quite fills the bill. There are better journals in Boston and Chicago than in the metropolis. The mistake made by the Herald, Times and Tribune was in not improving their quality instead of reducing their price. All our papers are inferior. They lack elevation of tone, candor and the ability to tell the truth without equivocation. The Herald under the elder Bennett was not by any means an ideal journal; but it was vivacious, readable and in its news columns absolutely truthful. The Herald of the younger Bennett is a partisan sheet. It abuses Blaine and Butler and supports Cleveland in the temper of any slang whanging country journal. The elder Bennett might have supported Cleveland in his editorial columns, but all the facts about the Maria Halpin scandal would have been honestly given in its news columns. It would have reported Gen. Butler's very clever and amusing speeches, and it would not have used its news columns to give false impressions about any of the candidates. But the same criticism is true of the Tribune and Times. They neither of them can tell the truth about the candidates they oppose nor publish any unpleasant facts respecting the candidates they favor. The Sun has shown more tact and sense in this canvass than any of the other daily papers. Dana, it is said, asked Governor Cleveland to appoint his friend, Bartlett, to some position he aspired to. The request was not heeded. This is said to be Mr. Dana's secret motive for opposing Cleveland. But nothing of this appears in the course of the Sun, which has been dignified, statesmanlike and apparently animated by the highest motives in its anti-Cleveland crusade.

Then there is the Evening Post, so wise, strong and dignified during the life of William Cullen Bryant. That distinguished poet would never have supported Blaine of Mulligan letter fame but he would have cut off his right hand rather than have published the articles which appear now in the Evening Post daily apologizing for incontinence in a candidate for high office.

But the press is in a transition state. The competition has been but just begun and the stronger and wiser papers will come to the front in time. It is a mistake to suppose that as the city grows so will the number of daily papers. There are fewer daily journals in London to-day than when that city had half its present population. The great journal of the future will be a paper full of information, very readable, but above all things it will be truthful. It will give all the facts about public measures and the leading men of the day. It will have its preference in politics but will avoid partisanship.

A Retired Editor.

Real Estate Department.

For the first time in many weeks we can announce a decided change for the better in the real estate market. Most of the brokers and dealers are back from the country, and they all report an excellent feeling among their customers. The attendance at the Exchange was quite large and the bidding spirited for whatever was offered. This was particularly the case on Tuesday last when a house in Forty-eighth street, near Fifth avenue, was knocked down for $81,500, after a very spirited contest. This was considered a good price for the property. Most of those on the floor looked bronzed from exposure at their seaside and mountain resorts, and many were regretting that they had not remained just one week more so as to escape the torrid temperature of the heated term which did not terminate till Thursday night. Brokers interested in renting residences report an unexpectedly large demand. It is too early as yet to determine whether the supply of houses and apartments will not be larger than the demand, but it is safe to say that all the desirable residences for tenant will be rented by the second week in October. Among the houses just rented may be mentioned the following; No. 16 West Forty-eighth street 23x60, for $4,800; No. 70 West Forty-sixth street, 25x60, for $4,800, and No. 3 East Forty-first street, 22x60, for $4,200, all being four-story and basement dwellings and partly furnished. A similar house west of Fifth evenue, unfurnished, rented for $3,600.

Among the plans filed during the past week is one for a brick skating rink at the junction of Eighth avenue, Sixty-first street and Broadway. It is to cost $50,000. Still another rink is to be constructed on the southeast corner of One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street and Lexington avenue. It is also to be of brick and to cost $18,000. There are two other large buildings recently projected for athletic purposes.

The Conveyances of last week compared with the corresponding week of last year show an increase in number but the total consideration is smaller; there is a decided increase in the district beyond the Harlem. Money is so easy that capitalists and corporations are glad to lend at 41/2 and 5 per cent, on first-class improved property. Six per cent is not asked except for unimproved or second-class property. The following is a table for this week:

They will be 27.1%x90 each, lot 103, and will be of brick and brown stone, the cost being estimated at about $34,000. They will be located on the south side of Sixteenth. street, 282.8 feet east of Eighth avenue. The above architects also have the designs for a frame hotel, 88x100, to be built at Poland, Panama, for Mr. J. Furth, United States Consulat that place, at a cost of about $30,000.

No designs have yet been drawn or submitted for the new armories. The commission has resolved to make a proposition to F. H. Cossitt and J. D. Yoran for the thirty-two lots bounded by Madison and Fourth avenues, Ninety-fourth and Ninety-fifth streets. It will be recol. lected that the Sinking Fund Commissioners have authorized an expenditure of $2,000,000 for grounds and buildings for the new armories. General Shaler informed a representative of THE RECORD AND GUIDE that four architects had already sent in applications to draw designs, but no one has been chosen. It is intended to have a competition so that the commission may be enabled to select the best plan.

It is the intention of the Methodist Episcopal Church Home to erect a spacious building on eight lots on the east side of Tenth avenue, extending from Ninety-second to Ninety-third street. Owing, however, to lack of funds, the institution will be unable to commence the work until next The president, Mrs. Bishop Harris, states that the present home at 255 West Forty-second street, would in itself yield a respectable sum, though hitherto the amount subscribed for the new building was quite nominal.

Obituary.

WILLIAM H. JENKINS.

Wm. H. Jenkins died at the residence of his son in Mount Vernon on Tuesday, after a brief illness. He was well known in the building trade of this city as one of the pioneer manufacturers of mill made doors, sashes and blinds, commencing operations in that line in 1851, and subsequently in partnership with his son expanding the business into large proportions. He has for a number of years been a resident of Larchmont Manor, where funeral services were held on the 11th inst. Interment, 12 inst., at Scituate, Mass.

Special Notices.

A representative of THE RECORD AND GUIDE called at the rooms of the Gorton Boiler Manufacturing Company, 110 Centre street, where he inspected two of the house-heating steam generators manufactured by them. They are both simple in construction, base burning and made of the best boiler iron. The first shown was formed by two annular vertical boilers, the smaller located within the larger in such a manner as to form an annular flame space between the two boilers, so that the heat comes in direct contact with the outer surface of the smaller and with the inner surface of the larger boilers, the inner surface of the smaller forming, so to speak, the reservoir for coal. The two boilers are connected by hollow tubes, both at bottom and top, so as to allow of a free and easy circulation from one to the other. encased in a non-conducting galvanized iron jacket, and the heat, after passing between the boilers, is conducted around the outer surface of the larger boiler and inside the jacket to the smoke-pipe, thus exposing the entire outer and inner surface of both boilers to the action of the heat. The second boiler seen shows the use of vertical tubes surrounding the coal reservoir or magazine and above the fire, so that the heat passes through these tubes and down through the outer ones, and thence up between the outer shell of the larger boiler and jackets to the smoke pipe, similar to the first boiler seen. Both boilers are self-feeding. They are furnished with a non-conducting galvanized iron jacket, and no brick or mason work is required in setting. This jacket envelops the boiler, confining the heat to the generation of steam instead of wasting fuel to heat brick mason work. The door opens into the fire at the grate, so that the flames can be seen and clinkers easily raked off. The cast iron tops or covers of the boilers are made in sections, so that parts of them can be removed without disturbing the boilers or attachments, so that the interior of the boilers and the flues can be readily reached for any purpose. All the improved attachments for convenience and safety can be applied to the boilers. The manufacturers state that each one before leaving the factory is thoroughly tested by actual pressure, so that none are shipped in imperfect condition. Experience has taught that for heating purposes, a pressure not exceeding eight pounds to the square inch gives the best results and greatest economy in fuel, and they therefore recommend a safety valve for use that blows off at from six to ten pounds pressure. The Gorton boilers generate steam quickly; they are compact and take small floor space, and are economical in fuel. In cheapness the manufacturers vie with any other wrought iron boilers, exclusive of the cost generally required in setting them in brick. The coal reservoirs are ample to hold coal for from twelve to twenty-four hours, and will keep up steady, continuous heat, without care of fire or shaking of grate more than twice, for twenty-four hours, excepting in very cold weather. A number of testimonials were shown to our representative, among which there are letters from Hayward & Hutchinson, of Washington; Patterson, Smith & Co., Albany, and others. Builders, architects and others interested should call at the rooms of the company at the above address, and inspect the boilers for themselves.

I. P. Frink's reflectors are so widely known and appreciated, that nothing can be said to add to their utility and value. They effectually solve the problem of lighting public buildings, churches and halls, while at the same time affording a means of ventilation. They have been adopted in the Grand Central Depot, and among other buildings where they are in use may be mentioned the Plymouth Church, Brooklyn; Dr. Meredith's church, Boston, and the new Music Hall, Buffalo. They have also been selected for W. & J. Sloane's new store, Broadway and Nineteenth street. Mr. Frink's rooms are at No. 551 Pearl street, city.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS .- In substance it is the old old story on the market for Common Hards. At times indications of a slightly easier feeling followed shortly by a toning up again, but when it comes to the end of the week it is a difficult matter to show that anyone has secured up again, but when it comes to the end of the week it is a difficult matter to show that anyone has secured a positive gain. We think, however, as against the current feeling at the date of our last, matters are now just a shade firmer and the position under better control. The influence of workingmen's strikes is still felt and occasionally crops out in unexpected quarters, and dealers do not at pear very ready to take any surplus over the consumptive capacity of the market, so that it would not require a very large amount to place receivers in an uncomfortable position. Yet against the above noted features the offerings are evidently under better control and can be fairly gauged to the requirements of business. Manu facturers have neither ceased production or shipments but in the latter score are slightly indifferent, and with signs of weakness on price will hold back stock, or, if the market appears propitious, can easily add a cargo or so and thus keep up a fair balance. On prices the average range remains at $5.006.50 per M, though a few Haverstraws have exceeded the latter figure by 25c per M. We are informed, however, that the extreme rate has been paid mainly because consumers had an idea that only one brand could be used for certain work in hand, and the premium cost in consequence can hardly be accepted as a fixed regular market value. Pales have been dull as a rule, yet most of the supply seems to disappear, and dealers are reporting the old general line of values all around, or say $2.003.50 per M, and now and then $4.00 for light Hards. Fronts are meeting with good general attention, and there is a somewhat firmer tone on Trentons and Philadelphias, with reduced offerings.

CEMENT.-Domestic is meeting with a fair and somewhat fuller demand if anything, and the tone of somewhat fuller demand if anything, and the tone of the market stiffens slightly, more especially on the best brands, though as yet without leading to alteration in prices. Foreign grades are filmer, if anything, and we hear of sales in some cases 50,10c, per bbl. higher than could have been obtained a few weeks ago. Fair arrivals have taken place since the first of the month but they seemed to disappear promptly and the stocks in store also having run down somewhat importers are very confident, especially as the amounts aff at are reported small without tendency to early increase.

GLASS -There is a good general demand for do mestic window and a well sustained market throughout. Indeed some operators talk very strong, and cout. Indeed some operators talk very strong, and complain of a great scarcity of regular standard sizes, with an intimation that between accumulated orders and proposed cautious production manufacturers will have difficulty in furnishing the market. Imported goods are meeting with fair general attention also, with the outlet apparently balancing the supply, and the line of values firmly and fully supported, with rather an upward inclination if anything.

HARDWARE,-Demand inclines toward an increased volume, but is of very careful form still, and most buyers confine themselves closely to the usual line of early necessity and standard goods. Local consumption is about up to the average especially in builders' hardware, but at many interior points the financial status is said to prevent anything like free investment, and the volume and size of orders is disappointing. In nearly al. cases "former rates" are quoted, but there is a great deal of irregularity at times and some cutting on lists.

LATH .- The features of the market do not change, but cost does, and the indications of last week are fully verified by a still further advance. Sales have ranged up to $2.50@2.60 per M, the latter for small the top of the market as yet in a wholesale way. Receivers are quite firm in their expressions and consider that the free manner in which the arrivals have been clearly demonstrates a good exhaustive capacity for the market not likely to be neutralized except by very liberal offerings.

LIME.-Fair arrivals have taken place during the week, but were met by a good steady demand from about all regular sources, and with the supply thus provided for receivers experienced no difficulty in sustaining values. At present the first-hand offer ings are small.

LUMBER -Reports of a slow limited business are still common enough, and indeed in some cases appear to be a little overdrawn. Failing to find the snap and bustle in trade of former years many operators are evidently led into underrating the extent of the movement and it is possible that the end of the season and the balancing of books will bring some agraeable surprises. We do not pretend to intimate that anything remarkable is going on in the way of distribution, but using the simile of the old fable, the tort ise and floor space, and are rers vie with any other teenth street. Mr. Frini movement of stock in small lots from day to day is likely in the end to reach a fuller and more satisfactory aggregate than the harelike spurely which, with and result in a power showing of actual husiness accomplished at the final f. oting for any giver period Offerings continue fair enough in quantity and assortment to satisfy the present market and values secure no positive stimulus beyond the gain on spruce from former low limits.

Eastern Spruce continues to be managed well enough to keep the general market in very fair shape and some receivers are inclined to speak with a greater degree of confidence. They claim production to be under better control, with random shipments less general because they are less necessary and calculated upon a firmer position for values all around where quality is in any way first-class and attractive. Demand takes about all the offering but is not snappish, as some of the leading dealers seem to have accumulated pretry nearly all the stock they want and others are not ready to take hold as yet with freedom. With recent small arrivals, however, receivers find that customers commence to hunt around more for cargoes and the effect is shown in a small gain of really useful stuff senge for confidence and so high as $16 thas been made on random, with $11.00 (2016 60 quo able for special.

White Pine could be selling in much larger quantity, and then not show any great amount of snimation, as the present line of business is really quite limite to all outlets. There has, however, been a little more feeling around of late for good first-class parcels as these are not plenty and have probably run as low in price as they will this season. Less attractive grades are held about as before, but there are a great many of them to hold, and buyers think they will lose nothing on the cost of supplies by waiting unful they are offered, instead of making a direct call for them. Nearby sources of supply are well stocked and s

ALBANY MARKET.

The Argus reports for week ending September 9 as follows.

Although there is no great change in the market a decided improvement in sales and shipments may be decided improvement in sales and shipments may be reported. Several large barges and many smaller ones have left the wharves with pine for the South and East, and more are now loading in the district. The lower prices for common pine continue, and a brisk demand would induce higher figures. At Ottawa pine of the better grades is selling as largely as at this time last year, and the report in a Boston paper of a large stock there and a small demand is contradicted in the correspondence of Albany dealers. The receipts of all kinds of lumber continue to increase the stock on the yards, which is now large and well assorted Spruce and hemlock are in good demand, and shipments through from the mills to customers continue to be a marked feature of the trade. Hardwoods are in good stock, and seasonedlumber of all kinds and qualities will be found on the yards. Lath are selling steadily, and shingles are in fair supply and demand. THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman reports the Chicago market at dock as follows:

The Northwestern Lumberman reports the Chicago market at dock as follows:

The same general characteristic of offerings mentioned in later previous reports has prevailed during the week. Piece stuff continues to artive in moderate proportion, and sells quite readily. The manufacturers over the lake are adhering to their policy of not crowding the market with this class of lumber to such an extent as to break down prices below their present range. In fact both sellers and buyers admit that short piece stuff is a little quicker of sale at outside figures than it was a week or two ago. Very little is now so'd at $8.25 a thousand, $8.37½ being the proper minimum figure. It is not asserted that enough is selling for more than $8.50 to make a quotable price above that, though a large proportion is quick at that, which could not be said some time since. There was one instance during the week wherein a part of a cargo of all Norway short length piece stuff was refused by the seller at $8.37½, and finally sold at $8.50. Considering that this was all Norway, it indicated the tone of the market to be a little letter than it was during the first three fourthr of the past month.

The price of timbers and long and heavy joists range upward from $10 a thousand, quotations on this class of stock being more difficult than on any other. The commission men insist that certain long lengths of 2x12 and 3x12 sell as high as $11.51 and $12, though they admit that the proportion that goes for these figures is small. Dry dimension is not much called for, that being offered on the market mostly coming from the saw. Only about 50 cents difference on a thousand is made between green and dry lumber, and this margin will likely diminish as the season draws toward a close. Dimension is being piled up at the Muskegon and other east shore mills in large quantities, and when it comes here, as come it must, it will be dry, and not much haggling about prices will be indulged in on that ccourt.

Within two or three weeks a number of cargoes of goo

LUMBERMAN AND MANUFACTURER, MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

MINEAPOLIS, MINN.

The movement of lumber from all the distributing centers grows heavier every day. In the Northwest lively complaints are now heard over a lack of cars.

At St Louis the receipts by river and rail have been light and the shipments have fallen off from last week's figures 200 M per day. A letter from there assures us that prices are firm. Raft lumber is scarce and for the first time we record a sale of culls by the string at $5 (0 in raft.

Recent rains have given to the mills of Minneapolis a tood stage of water and the rafters a go d opportunity to run logs below. The indications are that as many of the loggers and mill men as can possibly get there, will go in and cut logs this winter in all the streams.

The London Timber Trade's Journal as follows:

The London Timber Trade's Journal as follows:

Cedar continues quiet, but as manufacturers have their immediate wants applied there seems no very near prospect of any great change in present figures, which certainly keep low.

American Black Walnut.—We notice something of a better class now landing and are glad to see some little falling off in the supply of poor logs, of which there has of late been enough and to spare. The consumption seems to go on steadily, notwithstanding all the doubts of sundry trade pessimists who anticipated otherwise.

American Whitewood.—We hear of but little doing, and suppose this article shares the general quietness just now.

AUCTION SALES.

On 26th inst., at Glasgow, a cargo of Tabasco mahogany, ex Karsvei, from Frontera, consisting of 577 logs, 158,939 sale feet, of which they sold 333 logs, 92,017 ft.; price ranging from 3½4 to 9½6.; average, 4½64, fully.

After the sale of mahogany parcels of black walnut and whitewood logs, &c, were sold as follows: 63 logs U. S. black walnut avg. sq. 179½ in , 2s. 7d. to 4s. 8d. per cub ft., string measure, avg. about 3s. 5d.; 4 logs Canary whitewood, 2s. per cub. ft.; 2 logs Canary whitewood, 2s. per cub. ft.; 2 logs U. S. hickory, 2s. 5d. per cub. ft.; 3 logs U. S. hickory, 1s. 9d. per cub. ft.; 3 logs U. S. hickory, 1s. 9d. per cub. ft.; 3 logs U. S. chefry, 2s. 6d. per cub. ft.

NAULS .- There is little or no change in the general situation. The movement of supplies has a situation. The movement of supplies has a some-what irregular form, and as we may happen to find operators who have had a good or bad trade the report varies. The home demand as a whole, however, keeps along at about a uniform level as to quantity and does not differ much as to the assortment required, though now and then the standard sizes go out with sufficient freedom to create temporary scarcity. Production is not under as close control as some of the trade desire and competition tends to keep rates easy. We quote at $2.15@2.25 per keg for 10d. to 6ud., according to quantity.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC -The standard descriptions of goods are meeting with fair general sale, and re-ports in most cases claim a satisfactory business. ports in most cases claim a satisfactory business. Some of the trade complain a little, but their previous expectations were probably too full and disappointment brings the natural sequence. The offering permits of any ordinary selection and it is available at about former cost, but holders have found no occasion to modify their views. Linseed Oil selling somewhat irregularly, both as to quantity and prices, but may be quoted at about $46,55c for domestic and $5.66c. for foreign. Spirits Turp-ntine moderately active and about steady at $16,32c., according to quantity, package, etc.

PITCH AND TAR — The demand moderately

PITCH AND TAR. — The demand moderately active on local account, with about the average run of shipping orders and prices ruling steady in most cases. We quote: Pitch, $2.25@2.30 per bbl; Tar-$2.5 @2.00, according to quantity, quality and delivery.
