Vol. XXXVIII.

JULY 3, 1886.

No. 955.

On Tuesday morning next, July 6th, we will issue a handsome volume which should be in the hands of every builder, contractor, architect, and owner or dealer in real estate before the close of the month. It is a new edition of the law relating to buildings in the city of New York, with added matter, marginal notes, and colored engravings to illustrate the subject. It will contain the law limiting the height of dwelling houses, also the existing Mechanics' Lien Law. This work is edited by William J. Fryer, Jr., whose original and well-thought-out comments will give it a special value. The volume will also contain a complete directory of architects in New York, Brooklyn, Jersey City, Newark and Yonkers. The book will be handsomely bound in cloth and sold at the low price of seventy-five cents.

The continued exportation of gold is a serious matter, and if it keeps up will break the back of the bull speculation in the stock market. There is some mystery about this matter, as from the trade reports the balance of international transactions is in our favor. Still the gold continues to pour in copious streams to the other side of the Atlantic. Another disquieting fact is the steady contraction of our currency, which has amounted to over $42,000,000 within the last six months. Under the term currency we include not only national bank notes, but silver and gold certificates. Indeed, in the two latter nearly $39,000,000 has been withdrawn and are now unused in the national sub-treasuries.

There are other disquieting factors which would seem to militate against a bull market, such as the Granger rate war in the West, the dullness due to the holiday season in the summer, and in the fact that we have had a May and June rise of large proportions. But the bulls point to the easy money market, to the excellent showing of the New York Central, Lake Shore and Michigan Central, to the maintenance of peace between the trunk lines and the revival of business in the South, and say that under such circumstances there is nothing but some unexpected disaster to depress the value of securities.

Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt's generous acknowledgment of the services of the employés of the Central, Hudson River and Harlem roads, is something which might be imitated with advantage by all the railway kings of the country. A kindly recognition of services rendered is often more efficacious in allaying discontent than an advance of wages or a reduction of the hours of labor. Among the most bitter complaints of the horse-car employés is the disregard shown by some of the officers to the personal convenience of the men. Their hours for meals are shortened, or they are kept an unnecessary length of time away from their families, or they are employed in a way to curtail their hours of recreation-all this is annoying and leads to the discontent which too often results in strikes. If Mr. Jay Gould should imitate Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt and do some good for his employés with the enormous wealth he has rolled up, it would soften the feelings of the masses who now regard him as their natural enemy.

The famous Committee of One Hundred, in Philadelphia, pursuaded the Legislature to pass an enactment putting a stop to all additions to its municipal debts. If improvements were called for, new taxes had to be levied to pay for them. After standing this for some years the city finally bullied the Legislature into allowing it to borrow more money. Boston has just passed through a similar experience. The reform charter forbade any more borrowing; but the Legislature has just permitted that city to increase its debt by $2,500,000. The eagerness of capitalists to lend money to municipalities is one potent cause to account for the increase of municipal debts. It is the excellent credit of the corporations which gets them into trouble.

The attempt of the silver men in Congress to issue silver certificates of one, two and five dollars, to represent all the unused dollars in the treasury, is a step in the wrong direction. What we ought to do is to withdraw the one and two dollar greenbacks and the five dollar national bank notes, reissuing the face value of the withdrawn currency in larger denominations. Then the government should have largely increased the number of quarter and half gold eagles minted. This would give us a precious metal retail currency, the same as that in vogue in Great Britain, France, Germany, Holland and all the leading commercial nations of Europe. There are no small bills in the countries referred to; but our policy of storing up the precious metals and issuing gold and silver certificates in their place will finally result logically in driving all gold and silver into the treasury vaults or away from our shores. If gold and silver are used in other countries and not used here, they will gravitate to the regions that want them most.

The Committee of One Hundred Citizens which aims to reform our city government will perform a useful public service if they thoroughly overhaul the city accounts as they promise to do. We ought to have a permaneut staff of auditors, appointed by our taxpayers, who would examine into every bill presented for payment at the Comptroller's office. For years we have had no thorough supervision of our city finances, and have but an imperfect idea of the waste that is constantly going on. It is idle to expect that the auditors appointed by the Mayor will ever be efficient in ferreting out corrupt practices on the part of city officers and contractors. It was a city newspaper which recently discovered that all the monies collected on weights and measures were not paid into the city treasury. By all means let the Committee of One Hundred overhaul every department of our municipal government and report to the public every instance of extravagance, waste or sinecurism. This kind of work will do more to give us good government than mere meddling with the nominations of the respective parties.

Real Estate Figures for Six Months.

The real estate market may be described as quiet, but very strong. The usual summer dullness prevails, but there is no concession in prices; indeed, for the season, there is a good deal doing. The tables annexed are of vital importance to all who are interested in metropolitan real estate. The June returns show a larger business in buying and building than did the corresponding month last year. There were 1,244 conveyances of property in the month just past, which shows 230 more transactions than for June of last year. Nearly 500,000 more dollars was invested also. Then plans were filed for 495 new buildings, costing $6,732,755, against 320 new buildings last year, costing $5,151,425. These figures show that the labor troubles did not seriously check the buying of real estate or the building of new houses, which continue in larger volume than in the two previous years. The figures for the whole six months just past are equally striking. There are some 1,500 more transfers, and the consideration was greater by over $41,000,000than for the first six months of the previous year. The building on the west side and the region north of the park continues without abatement, and shows quite an advance over last year: but the figures are so striking, not only for the month but for the six months, that the reader would do well to make the comparisons himself, for all the available figures will be found in the very accurate tables which we append.

It will be noticed that the total amount to be expended in new buildings during the past six months was nearly $37,500,000. Should this continue some $75,000,000 will be invested in new structures in New York during 1886, against some $44,000,000 the previous year.

But, of course, the spring is much larger than the fall business, and the total investments will probably not be much over $60,000,000. But, in any event, there will be a handsome gain over last year. It may be noticed that the mortgage indebtedness, created by the transfers of real estate, has not proportionally increased.

While New York is forging ahead at this rapid rate, our sister city, Brooklyn, shows a decided falling off in its building operations. In the first six months of 1885 2,030 new structures were projected, to cost $10,567,022. This year the new buildings projected are only 1,878, to cost $9,267,417. The names in their respective directories show that Brooklyn still keeps ahead of Chicago in population, but if the building falls off in our sister city as it has done during the past year Chicago will get and keep ahead.

A feature of the market was the trading of large apartment houses, the seven-story brick and stone flats Nos. 322 to 328 West Fifty-seventh street, 100x100.5, known as the "Princeton," were exchanged for Brooklyn lots at a valuation of $300,000. The "Galaxy" flats, on the northwest corner of Eighty-sixth street and Lexington avenue, were exchanged for Brooklyn lots at a valuation of $230,000. The seven-story brick flats, known as the "Marlborough," Nos. 354 to 360 West Fifty-eighth street, were exchanged at a valuation of $290,000 for a farm in New Jersey, formerly owned by Jim Keene. Several Fifth avenue houses were also exchanged, including No. 72, on the northwest corner of Thirteenth street, 51.7x100, at $176,000, and Nos. 1042 and 1047 at $40,000 each, for flats on West Fifty-third street. Four lots on the southeast corner of Fifth avenue and Ninety-eighth street were exchanged at $65,000. Here are the tables:

Wheat rules extraordinarily low in price, in view of the fact that outside of the United States the promise of the crop is not good. Australia will send no wheat to Europe this year. The English yield is behind the average. Egypt has none to spare, the Hungarian and Russian crops are certainly behind hand, while it is now quite certain that Hindoostan will not market any more grain than it did last year. Our crop will be 60,000,000 bushels behind that of 1884; but is not only a larger crop than we grew last year, but the berry is well filled and plump. It is good crops of good wheat that witness, for instance, the crop we are just marketing. Of course the difficulty with us is that we have a very large crop impending and we are carrying a surplus of 70,000,000 into the next crop year. We are shipping grain very liberally, more than double as much as last year.

The Consolidated Exchange Building.

The majority of the Consolidated Stock and Petroleum Exchange, as was expected, refused to adopt the recommendation of its Building Committee to lease a magnificent building, suited for its use, to be erected on the opposite side of Broadway, near its present quarters, and will now consider the amended proposition of the Jones estate to lease the present buildings Nos. 60 and 62 Broadway, together with the corner building No. 58, for a term of three years, at a rental of about $80,000 per annum, including taxes. They were at first offered a twenty-one years' lease at $95,000, but will probably prefer the short term, as the Exchange will, at its expiration, be in a strong position and able to act independently in choosing a permanent situation. If this plan is carried out about $30,000 will be expended in the improvement of the buildings to be occupied. The erection of the fine building on the other side of the street will not be delayed on account of the decision of the Exchange, but it will be completed in such a manner as to form a most important city improvement.

Our Prophetic Department.

INVALID-Where can I get a work fully, describing the various health resorts in the United States? Of course special diseases require special locations, and on this point I apprehend there is a good deal of misinformation because of the practice of the landlords who unite in claiming that their special resort is good for all the ills that flesh is heir to.

SIR ORACLE—There is no work that I know of which tells of the advantages and the limitations of the various health resorts. This last point is a very important one, for the waters of some springs are positively hurtful to patients suffering from disorders closely allied to the maladies they will alleviate. The famous hot springs of Carlsbad, for instance, while very efficacious in liver and stomach troubles, are hurtful to all who have disorders of the kidneys, and positively dangerous to anyone liable to hemorrhage or of inflammatory tendencies. The Poland Springs again, in Maine, are helpful in disorders of the kidneys and bladder, but are no good at all for liver or stomach troubles. Good results follow drinking the Poland water in cases of albuminaria, but diabetics receive no benefit from useing it.

INVALID-Do you not think we have as good mineral waters in this country as any in Europe?

SIR O .- I judge that our mineral waters are the most varied and the best in the world, but those of Europe have the advantage of being better known. There is a medical literature extant which gives us the minutest particulars respecting the baths and springs of the Old World. Then what may be called the climatic health resorts of Europe have been exhaustively written up. Hence ailing persons know to a nicety what places like Nice, Mentone, and other famous European health resorts will do for them. In this country we only know in a general way of the value of our leading mineral springs; but their limitations are not fully understood, and hence sick people are often rather harmed than benefited by going to the wrong resorts.

INVALID-I can understand that baths and mineral waters may have active therapeutic virtues; but does mere climate amount to much? Is not the change the main point for ailing people?

SIR O .- People in fair, ordinary health are benefited by almost any change, but climatic conditions are often vital to people with chronic ailments. Sufferers from heart disease, for instance, should not go to high altitudes. All who have lung or bronchial troubles require an equitable temperature. Some consumptives do better in the high dry air of Colorado, while others again require the moist atmosphere of Florida, Italy, or Southern California. The sea air is very beneficial in some cases and almost fatal in others. People, however, in ordinary good health, who have their homes in the interior, will be advantaged by a sojourn at the seaside, while those who breathe the salt air for the best part of the year would do well to seek the mountains during their summer vacations. As I have said, our literature on this subject is very defective, and even our most experienced physicians are at a loss when asked to send their patients to the localities that would do them the most good. The trouble is that too much is claimed for each of the resorts by those who are interested in their patronage and popularity. A very useful work could be written, entitled "Cautions for Those who go to Mineral Springs and Health Resorts." I think people generally drink too much of the waters. Richfield, for instance, is justly popular for its strong sulphur springs, and I have seen some remarkable cures of rheumatism and skin diseases at that place; but among the constituents of the water is plaster of usually bring high prices and not poor crops of poor wheat, as Paris, which certainly is not adapted for the human stomach in any large quantities. I am inclined to believe that one can take too much of the saline waters of Saratoga, while I am quite sure that many sick persons are injured by partaking of them at all; yet I regard the Saratoga Springs as among the most valuable to be found anywhere.

INVALID—You do not think it necessary for Americans to go to Europe for springs and baths?

SIR O.—I believe the time is not far distant when sick Europeans will come to our health resorts and springs. I believe certain classes of consumptives can do better in Colorado, New Mexico and Southern California than in any part of Europe. I know nothing in Europe equal to the Saratoga waters for cleansing the interior mucous surfaces of the body. Poland water is better than anything in Europe I know of for kidney and bladder troubles. The Waukesha waters are less dangerous, if not so efficacious, for diabetics than the hot springs of Carlsbad. For rheumatism and gout as well a certain stomachic derangements, the hot springs of Arkansas, the sulphur waters of Virginia, Sharon and Richfield are the equal of anything across the ocean. The Excelsior Springs of Arkansas possesses marvelous virtues of their own for many disorders. Then, of course, there are literally thousands of curative waters on the spurs of the Rocky and Sierra Nevada Mountains, whose virtues are as yet untested and unknown. Before half a century passes away, it will be found that we possess more attractive and valuable natural sanatariums than can be found anywhere else on earth.

The land question in England and Scotland has assumed proportions undreamt of on this side of the ocean. There are scores of publications never heard of by the American people which are denouncing landlordism and demanding a revision of the laws which keep the land a monopoly in the British islands. Charles Bradlaugh publishes a National Reformer, which seems to be well sustained. The Democrat is the name of another very widely circulated Radical paper, which is not only agrarian in its teachings but favors the abolition of the monarchy as well. This last is a weekly journal of a high literary character. Its selections and original articles alike give indications of the highest culture, yet it circulates mainly among the masses.

It is curious this demand for the division of the soil among the people should come at a time when the competition of other regions was so largely depreciating the value of the land of England for crop growing purposes. The owners of improved city realty on the continent, as well as in Great Britain, have little to complain of, for that kind of property holds it own; but farming lands are losing value season by season all over Europe. This being the case, the country landlords would doubtless be quite willing to surrender their estates if the State would indemnify them for their loss of property. The "three acres and a cow" promised to Hodge can be transferred to him only by the government. There is no disputing the fact that the English Democracy are growing, and one of the objects they have in view is the distribution of the soil among the mass of the people.

The Pan-Electric investigation throws a good deal of light upon the transactions of the two parties in interest, but does not settle the question as to the morality of the movements and dealings of the persons interested on both sides. The contest has been between a powerful and widely-connected monopoly and an unscrupulous syndicate of capitalists and adventurers on the other side. known politicians and leading organs of public opinion, so called, have been implicated for and against the contestants. It is unfortunate that Secretary Garland was the owner of stock in the opposition company, but there is no proof that he acted corruptly. The zeal of certain newspapers on one side or the other is a suspicious c roumstance as regards them. Partizanship will account for many of the articles; but if it is true, as Mr. George Jones states, that a famous patent lawyer was allowed to contribute articles for leading journals, he being in the pay of the Bell monopoly, then indeed there is an explanation due from the journals which have discussed this matter with so much heat, having no party end to serve.

A theory has lately been put forth relating to a probable cause of unthriftiness of trees planted in ornamental grounds, which deserves attention. Trees draw from the soil certain saline elements which they especially need and which are found almost exclusively in the foliage. When the fallen leaves are allowed to remain on the ground and decay through the autumn and winter these elements are returned to the soil and are again taken up by the trees; but in grounds that are neatly cared for they are in many cases raked together and taken away every season. In the streets and small parks of some cities, it has been noticed that the young trees are doing well, while the older ones are prematurely losing their vigor, and it is thought that the cause lies in the fact that these have taken the required salts from the soil, and they have not been in any way replaced. It would be better for the trees to let the leaves remain on the ground, as they do in the forests.

Concerning Men and Things.

Oscar Wilde was roundly abused for his supposed affected silliness in demanding that men should wear more artistic and highly-colored garments; but he certainly anticipated the costumes our young men subsequently made fashionable in out-door sports. The knee-breeches, stockings, tennis and wheelmen's suits have since been cut and made in accordance with his teachings. This summer it is claimed in some quarters that men's country summer attire is rougher and more unconventional than ever before. Tennis and boating costumes are still neat and handsome; but the ordinary out-of-door gear of the young man of the period, when on his summer vacation is, to put it mildly, very shabby. The aim is to look like a picturesque ruffian, but very often the result is to turn the spruce young city man into the counterfeit presentment of a very seedy tramp. The society dude seems to take a particular delight in being as unlike himself as possible. Young men who are bound for a country place now pack their valises with worn-out shoes, hats that have no shape, and leave their fine underwear at home, an old flannel shirt taking the place of the linen article as well of cuffs and collars. The fairer sex, however, still cling to their pretty dresses and gay trimmings, and, as a matter of course, look lovelier than ever when contrasted with their rough and ill looking male associates.

Concerning the arrival of the Tichborne Claimant, whose first lecture was given to a small audience last Sunday evening, an up-town grocer, who was formerly engaged in business in Australia, has had a recent but pleasant experience. Last Sunday the ponderous "baronet" visited him at his house, and much to his surprise paid him the debt and interest on a loan reaching as far back as twenty-four years and amounting to something over $5,000. In exchange his creditor handed him an old silver hunting watch, a breast-pin and a few trinkets which he had taken as collateral. It is said that the Claimant informed his creditor that since his release from Dartmoor prison he had raised about £11,000 by subscription, so that he is far from being impoverished. The grocer, who was always a firm believer in the Claimant's pretentions, is now more enthusiastic than ever in his behalf.

But whatever may be the character of the new evidence which the Claimant says he has succeeded in obtaining since his release from Dartmoor prison there is no doubt that the man is lamentably deficient in the grammatical use of his native language. However, his prospects for interesting an American audience in his financial affairs are remote. It would be interesting just now to know what has become of the Herald's newlyfound Claimant No. 2, who was last heard of at Washington some few months ago. It would doubtless attract more attention and prove a more profitable venture if some enterprising manager would bring them together. Why does not the Herald carry out the idea as the latest stroke of journal istic enterprise? Then there would be a pretty "how d'ye do" with a vengeance.

The English fashion of wearing a mourning badge on the left arm is being introduced into this city. And there is much to be said in favor of the innovation, contrasting it with the extravagant forms of mourning habiliments usually adopted on this side. Apropos of the subject it may be well to add that the Charity Organization Society, whose offices are on University place, have a list of the names of undertakers who furnish funerals at a cost of from $10 to $75, with a statement of the items included in the cost.

So far the public has not been made uneasy about the usual cholera scare which sets in about this time on the part of the daily press. There is one fact, however, that should be borne in mind, and that is the adequate provision of a well-directed system for supervising the public health of children. Not long ago an alarming statement was made by the Commercial Advertiser of the prevalence of the contagious disease known as granular lids among the children and inmates of public institutions where the percentage ranged from 30 to 50 per cent. During the summer it is expected that children's gatherings of various kinds will be organized, and, considering the chronic condition of dirt and squalor in which so many young ones live, it is but reasonable to hope that the sanitary authorities will keep a sharp look-out over the make-up of such gatherings, and thus prevent the spread of infection, especially of measles, which through ordinary neglect might take serious form. In this respect there is decided room for improvement.

The following anecdote of the late William H. Vanderbilt illustrates a phase of his character not generally known to the public. When he was staying at the Profile House in the White Mountains he was agreeably surprised at the superior manners of the young women who acted as waitresses. He asked the manager where he got them and was told they were college students who chose this method of earning enough to enable them to continue their studies. A few days after, when settling his account, Mr. Vanderbilt handed him a check for $6,000, with the request that it be distributed among the waitresses, "but don't you give them a cent," he said, "until they have finished their engagement."

The writer, on telling the story to a friend, who is also engaged in the hotel business, gave altogether a different account of his experience with college student waitresses. "They must have been quite a different species," he remarked, "to those whom I employed. I employed some sixty of them, and I can assure you that from two to five o'clock I was completely at their mercy, for they would stroll on to the beach with their sunshades and gauze dresses and pass the time away in studying text-books. So I got rid of them at very short notice and employed first-class colored waiters who knew their business. Why, if I'd have kept those young women a week longer they'd have knocked the hotel business higher than a litte. I didn't try the experiment twice I can assure you,"

Home Decorative Notes.

- -Everywhere, from the building or the choosing of the house we inhabit to the selection of the smallest knick-knack within it, are these two considerations at war within us, what we want and what is supposed to be "the thing?"
- —What could be a more dainty decoration for a bureau than a scarf of pure, white Chinese silk, lined with yellow silk, the latter glowing through squares of drawn work, fine and intricate as a spider's web. At the ends of the scarf are hung yellow silken cords and tassels.
- —The designs in satchets are extremely varied. Very pretty ones are made of satin in triangular shape, fringed on two sides, a spray of sweet pea or bunches of violets are painted on them. Purse and bag-shaped satchets are also embroidered or painted with some delicate design.
- —Dainty, fairy lamps now shed a soft light over the dinner table, for instance, the palest of yellow glass globes, with a light decoration of flowers, crowned by a shade looking like a crumpled yellow hily, and when the is tiny flame is kindled inside the slender chimney the whole looks like a fairy-flower.
- —White marble mantels, those monuments to departed ideas of elegance, may be concealed by fastening to a slender brass rod, secured under the mantel shelf, a pair of curtains of plush that can be drawn back when a fire is needed, or caught together to hide an empty grate. A pretty addition is a little curtain about eighteen inches deep run on a rod fastened that distance above the mantel, it serves as a good background for ornaments, and adds greatly to the artistic appearance of the room.
- —Rooms done up in Arabian style are now very fashionable—a screen of Cairene woodwork across one side of the room, Cairene woodwork in the windows, Arabian coffee tables, inlaid with pearl and ivory, Arabian mirrors set in a sort of red wood inlaid with pearls, the walls panelled with stamped leather, Arabian tiles for a dado, and embroidered leather covers for chairs and foot-stools.
- -Among the recent importations of mattings are those of red, yellow and blue, with various mixtures of brilliant colors.
- —Faded flowers can be entirely restored to freshness by clipping the stems and putting them in very hot water. The secret of the hot water treatment is said to be this: the sap is sent up into the flower instead of lingering in the stems.
- —A pretty background may be devised for an old-fashioned mirror by gathering China silk in large, loose folds and fastening it under the frame with small tacks.
- —A satisfactory feature introduced this season consists of elegant parasols, with extremely long silver handles in rustic designs, simulating natural wood
- —Among the new curtain materials is a charming French cretonne, of the "crepe cloth" variety, which comes thirty-two inches wide, at about seventy-five cents a yard. On a cream white ground are shown large chrysanthemums in shades of softened pinks and yellows, with foliage in tender olive greens.
- —Chair sachets of silk can be covered with bolting cloth, on which are painted groups of disks, tinted delicately with the transparent dyes forming backgrounds for flowers, butterflies and foliage.
- —An exquisite screen panel of rich blue satin has a rustic trellis, over which orange, gold and tawny red nasturtiums climb, the delicate green of their leaves harmonizing with the browns, rich reds and yellows.
- —Colored paper of certain designs can be procured and placed on the glass so deftly and securely that when the light shines through, it has precisely the same effect as stained glass.
- —Hangings and draperies may be scented by saturating them with the smoke of Chinese joss sticks.
- —The love for odd and strange devices seems to run into furniture, for example, an old fashioned mirror and spinning-wheel are combined so as to make a quaint looking dressing-table, the wheel projects beyond the right side of the mirror, and is used to hang various articles on, hooks being inserted, at the left is a dressing-case finished like a cabinet, in which brica-brac may be placed, underneath this and separated from the table, which extends from the centre of the wheel to the end of the dressing-case, is an alcove which serves as a receptacle for the toilet service, a deep drawer is below this and a small cupboard below the mirror.
- —Mosaics, as a choice form of decoration, are being fairly patronized in the way of insertion in wall spaces and sides of fireplaces.
- —China and glass go on improving, there are jewelled goblets and centre pieces of yellow glass covered with gold and what looks like jewels; the Bohemian ware shows beautiful rose, ruby and gilded ice cream sets, vases, flagons, decanters, glasses with borders in imitation of filigree or lace work in gold and enamel of delicate colors; from the Royal Worcester works are examples of reticulated porcelain bottles which show with what perfection the English cope with the mechanical difficulties which were overcome by the Chinese.
- —In the general decoration of the house, the nursery or the rooms in which the little ones spend so long a portion of their early lives, should not be forgotten, but made as cheerful and attractive as possible, and now-a-day's when really good colored illustrations are to be found in so many of our monthly and weekly publications, instead of destroying them have them simply framed and displayed in these rooms, you will soon discover that the little trouble and trifling expense which is required will more than repay you, and the children's room transferred into a bright and cheery spot.

Mr. Wm. K. Vanderbilt's House.

The library, which makes one of the rooms on the first-floor, is a Henry II. room, in ebony. The wainscoting is six feet high, panelled, the forms being ellipses and circles inclosed in squares, with the ellipses carved in shell-like forms and the whole bounded by rectangular styles. On the north and south walls the space above is covered with deep red reps, and is utilized for paintings. Above, the cornice vaults over and into the ceiling, making semicircular coves filled in with paintings by Galland. The mantel on the west wall was bought by Mr. Vanderbilt at the Milan Exhibition; this is a modern copy of an old mantel in colored marbles and represents two figures of Hercules as caryatides supporting a frieze of boys. Above the mantel is a panel containing a portrait of Commodore Vanderbilt, painted many years ago by Eliott. The mantel-breast curves up and meets the ceiling, and, passing down, connects with architectural lines the corresponding curve from the opposite end of the room. This is in panelling of wood, and in the same manner the curves, formed by the plaster and filled in with paintings of the north and south walls, are connected. The book-cases on the east and west walls are formed by furring out and using the recesses for the book-shelves. As all the rooms, the library has a

Mrs. Vanderbilt's room is over the reception-room and on the next floor. This is also a Henry II. room, the walls are wainscoted high in black walnut, made very dark by treatment. Plasters above divide the wall space into panels that are filled in with stuffs. The ceiling is heavy and massive, the panels showing the characteristic ellipses and circles, as does all the panelling of the room. The over-mantel is a salient feature of the room, the breast being of perforated carving relieved against deep red stuff. The bed is on a dais and is a reproduction of the famous old bed in the Cluny Museum, with carved posts, canopy and the beautiful bed-covering as well.

The bathroom that adjoins has been called one of the three ideal bathrooms of the world, the other two being that of Marie Antoinette at Fontainbleau, and that of Madame Wilson, the daughter of President Grevy, at Chenonceaux. This is a proud distinction, and Mr. Hunt, who is the architect of the house, has done nothing in the house more absolutely perfect. The room has a high marble wainscoting, perfectly plain, except at the top, where there is a band of incised ornament filled in with gold. The walls above are panelled in bevelled mirrors, separated by little brass mouldings. Over these are painted apple blossoms. The ceiling is of papier maché, modelled in a Henry II. pattern of circles and squares, and painted in cream and gold. The bath is from a solid block of marble with a top moulding of a row of scallop shells and faucets of solid silver shaped into swans' heads. At the head of the bath is a niche intended for the marble figure of Venus stepping from her bath. The only furniture of the room is a table its entire breadth, made of a slab of marble resting on chimerés. The floor is of marble. In the wall overlooking Fifty-second street is a small window with jambs and rabbit covered by mirrors. The decorations of the room—and its proportions are each so harmonious that its ideal reputation is well sustained.

Mr. Vanderbilt's room over the library is comparatively simple in treatment. This is a Henry II. room in ebony. The wainscoting is in elliptical panels and the mantels and wood-work carved out in Renaissance designs. The walls are hung with stuffs and the ceiling simply painted. From this room Mr. Vanderbilt steps up into his bathroom that allows for a bath sunk into the floor. This, as the toilet arrangements, is bordered in Mexican onyx. The room is Moorish in style. It is wainscoted in Moorish tiles up to the spring of the arch of the semi-circular ceiling.

A room, intended for a dressing-room, connects Mr. Vanderbilt's room with that of his wife's, but this at present is filled with plants and used as a small conservatory.

Mrs. Vanderbilt's bathroom separates her apartment from the children's nursery. This is in first Empire style. The walls are tinted in pinks, harmonizing with the mahogany of the wood-work, and, with the exception of a few classic lines, is without ornaments. The furniture, of mahogany and brass, was made abroad, and is in keeping with the style of the room. Connecting with the nursery is the children's morning and breakfast room. This is in pine, painted gray-green, and reflects old English styles, with lockers and the necessary appurtenances, dumb waiters, etc. The guest-room is immediately over the nursery. This is Louis XV. in style, pannelled, and wall spaces hung with stuffs. The panels over the doors and windows have paintings of children. The ceiling is panelled with an elliptical centre piece representing sky and clouds. The general color of the room is in colder granite tints than the cream and gold of the drawing-room, and the furniture is made to correspond.

An inspiration from Haddon Hall is found in a sitting and sewing-room over Mrs. Vanderbilt's room. This has a high wainscoting in comparatively small squares. The fire-facings are of Carlisle stone, and overhanging mantel and mantel-breast is of the wood panelled as the wainscoting. Here the angles, as well as the corners of the room, are flanked by pilasters that are carried to the ceiling. The ceiling is divided by apparent beams into eight panels which are filled in with plaster, and ceiling and walls are painted to harmonize with the wood-work, which is dull red.

On the same floor, over Mr. Vanderbilt's room, is a small room intended to be fitted up as a den. The rest of the upper floor is given up to the servants, which one may say are luxuriously lodged, with hardwood floors, lockers of oak, and all the conveniences of easy living.

The billiard-room is one of the rooms yet unfinished, but is now being contracted for. This is to be Moorish. The high wainscoting is of Moorish tiles. The walls above are to be of papier maché, modelled from the original molds of the Alhambra that are the property of Mr. Hunt. The ceiling forms three long sections separated by apparent beams and filled with most elaborate carving. This and the doors that are to be ornamented with Moorish interlaced work are to be of gum wood. The mantel will have fire-facings of onyx, and the fire-places will be a horse-shoe arch. The mantel-breast above will have a series of niches above separated by small onyx columns. Onyx plays an important part in the scheme. A feature of the window is a lattice of onyx in a perforated Moorish design, and of so thin a slab of onyx as to be translucent. This lattice is supported on two small columns of onyx reaching to the floor. Opposite the mantel-breast is a fountain recessed in a niche. Here the water runs and breaks over silver ribs, producing a pretty effect of spray and ripples through which the silver has its value. The billiard-table and furniture will be designed in keeping with the room. Off of the billiard-room is a toilet-room lined with old Moorish tiles with a ceiling inlaid with marble and Moorish carving in wood and floor of tiles. The fixtures are to be of onyx.

The basement is not unworthy the care and magnificence of the upper stories. The consideration for the entertainments and diversions of the servants is seen in supplying them not only with parlors and sitting rooms. but with a billiard-room for their accommodation. The kitchen is one of the finest in this country. The range stands out in the room underneath a great copper hood suspended by chains. The floor is marble and tiles are carried to the ceiling. The trays, slabs and sinks are all marble set in metalwork and so arranged that they can be cleaned with a hose. There are wine rooms and cold rooms and a refrigerator placed under the sidewalk. The boiler which heats the house is placed under the terrace in the rear. This terrace was at one time intended for a carriage drive with entrance through the banqueting room. It was accordingly provided for by superb blocks of blue stone and stone balustrade, but this project was for some reason abandoned.

Is this Moscow, Berlin or New York?

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

I confess to a feeling of indignant surprise when I read the reports in the papers this morning that the police had practically broken up a meeting of city railroad employés who had met to hear Grand Master Powderly, who was in town to try and settle the differences between some of the car companies and their men. As the matter in hand was confidential, Mr. Powderly did not wish any auditors but the car employés directly interested. Three policemen, however, by order of Captain McCullough, forced their way into the meeting and would not retire when requested to do so, giving as an excuse that they were there by order of the Police Department.

Now suppose the police had intruded into a meeting of Free Masons or Odd Fellows—suppose they claimed the right to be present at a meeting of the directors of Mr. Jay Gould's companies when that person was ready with some scheme to exploit the public-what a roar of indignation would have gone up from every newspaper in New York, which would be re-echoed by every organ of public opinion throughout the Union? Under what law do these ignorant police captains act in intruding themselves upon a meeting when men were discussing their own private matters? Could any worse have been done in St. Petersburg or Vienna? Why is it that not one single daily paper in New York does not voice the hot indignation of all libertyloving citizens at this violation of one of the most sacred rights of a free people?

Mr. Powderly's presence here is not to stir up strife, but to prevent strikes and tie-ups. He should have the countenance of all good citizens in his efforts to keep the public peace. Is it wise to treat the common people who compose the bulk of our working-classes in a different way from other citizens? After all they form the bulk of the community, and poll the most votes. It is they who can control, if they are united, all the places of power-legislative, executive and judicial. So far they have been disunited, and, practically, power has been in the hands of capitalists and professional men. But what folly it is to drive these people by insults and outrages such as this to form political combinations of their own. BEWARE.

The Summer Hotel Season.

That all-important question—the weather—is a topic of continued anxiety among the proprietors of summer hotels. So far it would seem that the season is to be an early one, though if meteorologist De Voe's predictions are reliable, an unpleasant opening may be expected for July which will be stormy. A large number of city folks, however, have already left or are making preparations to leave town. The large exodus to Europe this year, however, will not materially affect domestic summer travel, while the numerous additions to the annexed districts may be expected to benefit Coney Island and other suburban points.

The attractions at Staten Island are received with mixed feelings of pleasure and regret-of pleasure because it will make the island better known to visitors from the metropolis, and of regret because it may have a tendency to destroy that exclusiveness in which the fashionable part of society so much delights to indulge.

Profiting by the popularity which has attended the Laurel House, Lakewood, N. J., a joint stock company is about to be organized to purchase the Magnolia and twenty acres of land at Toms River, situate about twenty miles from Lakewood. It is said to possess the same life-renewing virtues, while it is far more picturesque in its surroundings.

Plans for New Armories.

At a recent meeting of the Armory Board, in the Mayor's office, Mayor Grace said, with reference to the applications of the Eighth and Twentysecond Regiments for new armories, that he was in favor of building armories for the different regiments as fast as it could be done with due regard for the interests of the city. A committee of the Board reported that the plans adopted by the old Armory Board for the armory of the Twenty-second Regiment were not satisfactory, and recommended that new plans should be advertised for. Counsel for Architect Kilburn stated that the plans adopted had been drawn under instructions from the old Board, that the architect was ready to modify them as might be required, and that it was doubtful if the new Board had the legal right to take the proposed action. The Board, will, however, probably advertise for new plans for armories for the Eighth and Twenty-second Regiments.

A committee, of which Gen. W. G. Ward was the chairman, reported, with reference to the plot of ground offered for an armory for the Ninth Regiment, lying between One Hundred and Fourth and One Hundred and Fifth streets and Eighth and Manhattan avenues, embracing about thirty city lots, that the cost of grading the plot and finishing the surrounding streets would be not less than $20,000, which would bring the cost up to $309,000, while the full and fair value in its present condition is not more than $225,000.

Bids for the remaining work on the Twelfth Regiment armory were opened, and the contracts awarded as follows: For carpenter and mason work, to Mahony Bros. for $9,582; gas fixtures, Archer & Pancoast Manufacturing Company, $6,040; iron work, Manly & Cooper, $2,300.

Federation in Great Britain.

American journals are so eager to conciliate Irish born citizens that they fail to give a correct idea of the pending political campaign in Great Britain. The only issue is supposed to be Home Rule vs. Coercion; but, as a matter of fact, there is a middle ground advocated by earnest friends of Ireland who do not believe in a separate Parliament for that country. The plan proposed is Home Rule, not for Ireland alone, but for England, Scotland and Wales as well. It aims to establish a federation system of government which would embrace eventually all the present British dominions. Of course no definite plan has yet been agreed upon, but the following proposed reconstitution of the British empire finds acceptance among the advanced Radicals and Democrats who wish to get rid of kings, lords, and a national church:

Skeleton Constitution of the United States of Great Britain, Ireland, and the Colonies.

PREAMBLE.

We, the People of England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales and the Colonies, in order to form a more perfect Union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defence, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and to posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the said countries.

ARTICLE I. The Legislature.

The Legislature.

Section I.—All legislative powers herein defined shall be vested in a Parliament of the United States of Great Britain, which shall consist of a single Representative Chamber.

Sec. II.—The Legislators shall be composed of members chosen by the people of the several States by adult suffrage in proportion to population.

Sec. III.—One-third of the members shall retire annually by rotation.

Sec. IV.—The times, places, and manner of holding national elections shall be determined by the Imperial Legislature.

Sec. V.—The majority of the House shall constitute a quorum to do business.

SEC. VI.—The National Representatives shall receive a reasonable compensation for their services, to be paid out of the Imperial Treasury.

SEC. VII.—The Legislature shall have power to levy and collect taxes, and to pay the debts and provide for the common defence and general welfare of the Union; to borrow money on the Imperial credit; to regulate commerce with foreign States and with the Union; to establish a uniform rule as to naturalization; to coin money; to fix the standard of weights; to control post offices, telegraphs and railways; to secure to authors and inventors copyrights and patents; to declare war; to raise, support, and control armies and navies; to repel invasions and to suppress rebellions.

SEC. VIII.—The writ of Habeas Corpus shall not be suspended unless in cases of invasion or armed rebellion, when the public safety may demand it.

SEC. IX.—No title of nobility shall be granted by the Union, or any State thereof, nor shall any citizen accept such from any foreign prince or State without the authority of the Legislature.

SEC. X.—No State shall enter into any treaty, alliance, or confederation with foreign States.

with foreign States.

ARTICLE II.

The Executive.

The Executive.

Section I.—Mr. Speaker shall be the titular Chief of the State. All Acts of Parliament, Commissions, etc., shall be attested by his signature. He shall be elected by the House for a term of three years.

SEC. II.—The Cabinet or Executive Committee of Parliament shall be elected annually by the House. It shall choose its own Chairman or Premier as well as the heads of departments from among its own members. The Cabinet shall be responsible to the Legislature alone. Neither wars nor treaties shall be made without the sanction of the House.

SEC. III.—With Mr. Speaker and the heads of departments shall rest the appointment of Ministers, Ambassadors, Consuls, and Judges of the Supreme Court, and other functionaries.

ARTICLE III.

ARTICLE III.

The Judiciary.

Section I.—The Judicial power in the Union shall be vested in the Supreme Court, recruited from the different component States.

Sec. II.—The Supreme Court shall have cognizance of all matters of contention arising under the Constitution, with foreign powers, or between States of the Union, or citizens of different States.

Sec. III.—Treason against the Union shall consist in levying war against it or adhering to its enemies.

Sec. IV.—The Legislature shall have power to declare the punishment of treason.

ARTICLE IV.

Miscellaneous.

SECTION I.—Full faith and credit shall be given (in each State) to the Section I.—Full faith and credit shall be given (in each State) to the Public Acts and records of every other State.

Sec. II.—Citizens of each State shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several States.

Sec. III.—The United States of Great Britain, Ireland, Wales, and the Colonies, shall guarantee to every State in the Union a democratic form of government, and shall protect each of them from invasion and from domestic turbulence by the armed forces of the Union.

Sec. IV.—All powers not expressly retained by the Federal Government or prohibited to the several States may be assumed by the respective States.

Sec. V.—The Imperial Parliament shall not prohibit the free exercise of religion in any way, nor abridge the freedom of press or platform.

ARTICLE V.

Amendments.

SECTION I.—No amendment to the Constitution shall be made valid unless sanctioned by a majority of two-thirds of the National Legislature.

ARTICLE VI.

This Constitution, and the laws and treaties made by the Imperial Legislature in pursuance thereof, shall be the supreme law of the land, and the judges in every State shall be bound thereby, anything in the Constitution or laws of any State notwithstanding.

It will be seen that this Constitution is based on that of the American Union and Swiss Cantons, with many novelties in addition. If Mr. Gladstone fails in electing a majority to the next Parliament and the Tories and Whigs are put in power, they may suggest a scheme of Home Rule which will give local self-government and keep the Union intact.

Members Elected and Proposed.

At a meeting of the directors of the Real Estate Exchange and Auction Room (Limited), held June 28th, the following gentlemen were elected stock members:

William G. Bibb, No. 51 Liberty street.

George T. Hanning, corner of Ninth avenue and Ninety-third street.

PROPOSED FOR STOCK MEMBER.

Jacob Berry Underhill, of No. 129 East Sixty-second street, real estate. Proposed by E. B. Underhill; seconded by Phillip A. Smyth.

New Parks.

Notice has been given to all owners and persons interested in lands or buildings included within the limits of Bronx and Pelham Parkway to present their proofs of title and values to the Commissioners of Appraisal, at their office in Room 17, Liverpool, London and Globe Insurance Company's building, Nos. 45 and 49 William street, at two o'clock P. M., on the 6th of July, and that in the event of their failure to do so awards for lands or buildings, in which such owners and persons may be interested, will be made to unknown owners.

A Bay-Window Injunction.

Judge Van Brunt, on Wednesday, denied the application of Louis Stern for the removal of an injunction obtained by the Fire Department restraining him from building a bay window on his house at Fifth avenue and Eightieth street. Mr. Stern's counsel stated that the window projected only four feet from the house, and that the Park Commissioners were willing that it should be completed. Judge Van Brunt said that the Park Commissioners had just as much right to give such permission as they had to give permission to build a house directly across Fifth avenue, and that the only permission he would give would be "to pull that window down."

The Opening of One Hundred and Fortieth Street.

Application will be made, July 30th, to the Supreme Court for the appointment of Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment in the matter of the application of the Board of Street Opening and Improvement for the opening of One Hundred and Fortieth street, from Eighth avenue to the first new avenue west of Eighth avenue. The nature of the improvement intended is the acquisition of title by the city to all the lands and buildings thereon required for the opening of said street.

Cornelius O'Reilly, an architect and builder of long practical experien in this city, has been re-elected by the Real Estate Owners' and Builders Association, of New York, to represent that association as a member of the Board of Examiners in the Building Department, in accordance with the provisions of the Building Law, passed 1885, giving to the association a representation in that Board by an architect or builder. The Real Estate Owners' and Builders' Association was incorporated to reform the laws, ordinances and regulations affecting real estate and improvements, to secure safety of life and property, and to promote improved methods of construction in the city of New York. The association is doing good service and assisting greatly the improvement and prosperity of New York city.

The World of Business.

The Brightening Outlook.

The Brightening Outlook.

Just before the labor troubles began in the early spring there was every promise of activity in business. Exchanges were large, and business men were full of confidence that if there was no boom coming, a steadily extending improvement of business was in sight. Then came the strikes with the consequent interruption of communication, and the hopes of business men were dashed. Strikes usually come just at the time when business shows signs of improvement. Strikers calculate that employers will then be hopeful and disposed to make concessions. The strikes this spring brought boycotting methods to the front. Employers were frightened, then angered, and the general business community shared in these sentiments. With the cessation of strikes consequent upon arbitration or direct failure, and the uprising of the community against the boycott, has come a resumption of confidence, and many business men feel that the improvement noted before the labor troubles set in is reawakening. This is the view expressed by such men as Chauncey M. Depew, Washington E. Connor, Jesse Seligman, F. B. Thurber and others. All are agreed that the interests of capital and labor cannot be dissociated without causing suffering to both, and that the future policy of capitalists should be to make the laboring men in some way sharers in the prosperity of the business, which employs them. With the growing conviction of the rights of labor to feel the improvement of labor in some tangible shape, and with the awakening of the laboring men themselves to the worse than folly of boycotting, there seems to be no reason why business should not improve. Certainly, there seems to be no reason why business should not improve. Certainly, there seems to be no reason why business should not improve. Certainly, there seems to be no reason why business should not improve. Certainly, the indications favor the belief that with the early fall we shall find business making good the promise it held out before the strikes began. Clearing ho

The Latest and Biggest Railroad Scheme.

The Latest and Biggest Railroad Scheme.

New railroad enterprises have not been in much favor for some time, as the people have become rather tired of having watered stocks and spurious bonds imposed upon them. But it must not be supposed that the fertile minds which project new lines have been idle. On the contrary, it appears that they have been busy in projecting the great masterpiece of the age, as outlined by a report which the government surveyors have made for a railway through Alaska to Behring's Straits, there to connect with a Siberian railway. This great project is urged on the idea of giving us an all-rail route to Europe; and due arguments are presented to show its practicability. So far as the 3,000 miles of railway on this side of the ocean are concerned it is shown that it can be built. About that there appears to be no doubt. But that any one will use the road for long years after it has been built does not seem so cleary established. If any considerable portion of European travel is going to prefer a railway trip of over 20,000 miles to an ocean voyage of 3,000, the road might have some traffic during the season when it was not impassable from snows or cut off from transit at Behring's Straits by the arctic ice. When people have no better place to settle than a country where the seasons are divided into two months of summer and ten of winter, the population of Alaska may furnish local traffic to such a line, but until then it hardly seems necessary to agitate the project very industriously. The most potent utility of this project at present is to furnish employment for the government surveyors. If any capitalists should take it up its principal usefulness would lie in the direction of government subsidies or the marketing of inflated securities. Just now, the conditions are not favorable for success in either way; but as the fluctuations of public opinion may make one or the other practicable in the course of years perhaps it is wise to have the scheme sufficiently advanced to be ready for gul

Annexation of Canada.

Annexation of Canada.

A correspondent of the Cincinnatti Enquirer, who appears to have given much intelligent thought to the fishery question and similar matters, holds that the only satisfactory settlement will be in the annexation of Canada. He says "the whole country will rally to the support of any party which will inaugurate that policy," and expresses regret that at the close of the war a half million men were not sent to Canada to "annex" it to the United States. Annexation was a prominent topic at that time, and this country was in a position to do some fighting if necessary, but all Seward's diplomatic efforts looked to the peaceful acquisition of the British provinces, not to conquest. The United States had just emerged from an unpleasant experience with certain dissatisfied Commonwealths, and, having established the doctrine that there was no way to get out of the Union by force, conceded that coming in must be voluntary. This principle still holds good. The United States wants no conquered provinces, but only homogeneous States entirely satisfied to bear permanent allegiance to the Stars and Stripes. Canada will come to the United States in time by force of political gravity, not by conquest. The great maritime provinces, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, and Prince Edward Island, find their interests all tending in this direction. Less than a fortnight ago the American flag was run up at Digby, Nova Scotia, and a declaration in favor of annexation was greeted with great cheering. Suppose this sentiment becomes general in the three provinces mentioned, and, after they have voted themselves out of the Dominion, England interferes to make them take down the Stars and Stripes—what then? Perhaps the United States would have to postpone the question for future consideration. With dilapidated and antiquated war vessels, armed only with pot-metal guns, the United States is in no position for a fight with England, and, in fact, cannot even talk about such a posibility with any kind of grace. But we might build s

The American Exhibition.

The American Exhibition.

The year 1887 will be a jubilee one for England, as it will mark the completion of Queen Victoria's fiftieth year upon the throne, and the great interest that will surround every public enterprise of that year in Great Britain has suggested to Americans the wisdom of holding the "American Exhibition" in London from May to November, 1887. No better time or place could be chosen, and the export trade of this nation is sure to be benefited by a display of products that will both open the eyes of English capitalists to our resources and will induce them to secure an exchange of commodities useful alike to them and to America. Representatives from England's colonies will at that time be in London, and they will not let pass unnoticed any chances for good trades. The character of the exhibition. The president is Hon. E. B. Washburne, of Chicago; the chairman of the General Council is Gen. A. T. Goshorn, of Cincinnati, Director General of the Centennial of 1876. Boston's representative among the vice-presidents is Col. Henry S. Russell, and the Advisory Board includes Hon. Oliver Ames, Hon. Henry L. Pierce, Mr. Harcourt Amory, Mr. 'Charles H. Dalton, Mr. Howard Stockton and Mr. Henry Saltonstall from Massachusetts. At the Centennial Exposition there were only about 2 per cent. of foreign visitors, yet great advantages resulted to the commerce of the United States. It follows that if 98 per cent. of foreigners inspect the exhibition of 1887, much greater good to the export trade will be accomplished. The American Exhibition is the only one in London next year, and within one hour's ride of the exhibition grounds reside 10,000,000 people, while it is estimated that 150,000 strangers enter London, every day. New England industries should be well represented, for the first attention of Englishmen will be directed upon the noted productions of the oldest and nost cultivated section of the country. The late William H. Seward, when Secretary of State, said of exhibitions, in communicating to Congres

The ontlook for the fall trade among wholesale dealers continues encouraging, notwithstanding the partial renewal of the labor strikes. The drygoods people report a fair demand from jobbers with fair orders from traveling salesmen at the West, and a satisfactory business is doing in domestics aprints, etc. For all descriptions of dress fabrics adapted to the coming season there is a steady demand, and some of the specialties, such as all-wool cashmeres, serges and diagonals, are largely sold in advance of production, with prices tending upward. It is reported that some of the Eastern mills have orders enough ahead for cotton warp cashmeres to absorb their entire output for months to come. Everything in the wool line is also very firm. A feature in foreign goods is the scarcity of plain velvets for prompt delivery, and an advance in price of seven to ten per cent. In the grocery trade a fair distributive business is reported by leading firms, and if the volume of merchandise that is going forward almost daily by the coastwise steamers is a safe gauge, it is safe to say there is at least as much activity among this class of merchants as has been witnessed at any corresponding season for years past. From the Northwest there is hardly any news that is not good news. The encouraging outlook for the crops keeps the farmers in good humor, and this in turn has its influence on the jobber and storekeeper, hence there is less difficulty in making collections than there was a while ago when the prospect was less assured.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The name of Colonel John Cockerill, managing editor of the New York World, is mentioned as the next candidate for the presidency of the Press Club. His friends think if he consents to run his election would be certain. Those who favor Joe Howard, Jr., for the same office are equally sanguine of his chances. A contest may be looked for, and it would be a close run, with perhaps a fair prospect of Eoward coming out ahead.

Real Estate Department.

Business at the Real Estate Exchange during the week has been lighter than at any time since January 1st, but, although there have been very few transactions the attendance has been remarkably good.

On Saturday several lots on Franklin avenue, southwest corner of One Hundred and Sixty-ninth street, were sold for $2,775.

The first sale of the week was on Tuesday, by order of the executors, when two two-story brick dwellings, Nos. 77 and 79 Oliver street, were offered. No. 77 was offered first and started at $5,000, and was sold to Peter Kelly at $9,200. He also purchased the adjoining premises for $8,600. The price, however, was not satisfactory to the executors, who expected to get $20,000 for the lots. The Victor Sewing Machine Company's property, at Middletown, Conn., consisting of several brick buildings and machinery, was withdrawn, no bidder being found.

On Wednesday the foreclosure sale of No. 248 Seventh street, south side, containing a four-story brick tenement, on which $4,568 was due sold for $9,125 to David Cahn. The foreclosure sale of Riverside avenue northeast corner of Eighty-first street, upon which there is a mortgage of $45,800, was adjourned until July 14th.

Thursday's sales were: The two-story and basement brick house and lot No. 129 East Fortieth street, first door west of Lexington avenue, for $13,000, to John E. Davis; the foreclosure sale of a plot on the south side of One Hundred and Forty sixth street, east of Leggett avenue, mortgage $2,243, for $435; the foreclosure sale of a lot on the northeast corner of Whitlock avenue and One Hundred and Forty-fourth street, 100x75, amount due $1,653, for $350; the partition sale of a plot on One Hundred and Fifteenth and One Hundred and Sixteenth streets, west of Eleventh avenue, for $13,500, to Alonzo P. Woodruff, plaintiff.

The Supreme Court partition sale of No. 453 West Thirteenth street, north side, east of Tenth avenue, 25x103.1½, was yesterday adjourned until July 8th.

R. V. Harnett & Co. will sell at auction on Thursday, July 8th, the three-story brick dwelling with store No. 443 West Thirteenth street, lot 25x103.1½ feet.

Out Among the Builders.

Thom & Wilson are preparing plans for the following buildings: For a five-story brown stone apartment house on the northwest corner of Ninth avenue and Seventy-sixth street, 25x96, to cost $30,000; also for nine fourstory brown stone residences adjoining, 19 and 20x55, to cost $20,000 each. John T. Farley, owner; also for the same party a five-story brick and stone apartment house on the southwest corner of Ninth avenue and Seventyseventh street, 25x96, to cost $30,000; also on the northwest corner of Ninth avenue and Sixty-ninth street a five-story brown stone apartment house, 25x96, to cost $30,000, and four four-story brown stone residences adjoining, fronting on the street, 18 and 20x55, to cost $20,000 each, for Michael Giblin; also for Messrs. J. W. Phelan and Nathan Murdough six threestory and basement brown stone private residences on the northeast corner of Seventh avenue and One Hundred and Twentieth street, three to front on the avenue and three on the street, to vary from 16 to 18x55 feet, to cost from $12,000 to $17,000 each. They will each be built in a different style of architecture. The first and last of these plans have already been casually referred to in this column.

James M. Macgregor & Son have plans on the boards for two five-story Philadelphia brick and granite trim flats with store fronts, 17x87 and 27.8x 87, to be built on the east side of Tenth avenue, between Eighteenth and Nineteenth streets, to cost about $30,000, for Frederic Bronson.

William Baker is making plans for two four-story brick, stone and terra cotta trimmed residences, each 20x55, with extensions 10x15, to be built on the north side of Eighty-first street, 395 feet west of Ninth avenue. They will have tile roofs, and will be finished in hard woods. The cost will be $16,000 each. Plundeke & Brandt, owners.

The encroachments of business upon Fifth avenue has lead the congregation of Christ Episcopal Church now on the southeast corner of Fifth avenue and Thirty-fifth street to determine upon building a new house of worship. It will be erected on the northwest corner of the Boulevard and Seventyfirst street. The plans are not yet fully determined upon, but those under consideration show a handsome stone edifice combining with the church a rectory and Sunday-school hall. Accommodations are provided for 1,200 worshippers. Architect F. C. Withers.

Edward J. Reynolds is preparing plans for the thorough remodelling of No. 105 Waverley place into a first-class apartment house, the improvement to cost about $25,000. The owner is Charles H. Butler. Plans are also being made by the same architect for the improvement of No. 119 Waverley place, for Martin Kelly, owner, to cost about $20,000. will be begun at once.

Charles Rentz is making plans for the erection of a five-story brick tenement, 25x62, at No. 312 Stanton street, adjoining the lots upon which similar dwellings are to be built, as previously reported in this column, to cost $15,000. The owners are Charles and A. Ruff.

Cleverdon & Putzel have plans on the boards for six five-story brick and brown stone flats and stores on One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, Manhattan street and Ninth avenue, 150x169x52.4, for E. Knox Little.

C. Baxter is making sketches for six three-story and basement Queen Anne dwellings, 16.8x35, at the southeast corner of Madison avenue and One Hundred and Thirtieth street for McLaughlin Bros., to cost $72,000.

The entire contract for the new extension to the Buckingham Hotel, corner of Fifth avenue and Fiftieth street, and which will occupy 34 feet on the avenue and 135 feet on Forty-ninth street, has been let to Alexander Brown. The cost will not be less than $100,000. R. C. Jones is the Plans are being made by Weber & Drosser for an extension to the Fifth Avenue Riding Academy on Ninety-first street, and the alteration of the front of the buildings, to cost $10,000. The owners are Antony & Runk.

The interior of St. Annn's Protestant Episcopal Church on the north side of Eighteenth street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues, of which the Rev. Thomas Gallaudet, D. D., is the rector, is to be remodeled this summer. The chancel will be arranged for a choral choir and the church will be fitted throughout with the most approved plumbing. The architect is F. C. Withers, and the cost is estimated at about $6,000.

H. J. McGuckin will erect a large five-story brick and brown stone cigar factory on the plot which he has just purchased on the southeast corner o Avenue A and Seventy-third street.

Ella M. Griffith will erect four five-story brick and stone flats on the south side of One Hundred and Twenty-third street, 100 feet east of Eighth avenue. The builder will be Hugh Meehen.

The Freundschaft Society intend to build a club house and library on the plot they have recently purchased on Fourth avenue, southeast corner of Seventy-second street, 102.2x130. The plans are to be decided by competition, and six architects will be invited to compete. It is not yet decided who they will be, as the selection will not be made for two weeks. Nathan, No. 94 Liberty street, is chairman of the building committee.

John McIntyre is the architect for a six-story brick, stone and terra cotta building, 33.4x50x34.3, on the southeast corner of Park and Mulberry streets, the lower floor of which will be used for a banking house and the floors above will be arranged in double flats. The entrance to the banking house will be on Mulberry street and that of the flats on Park street. two fronts will have handsome cornices and window caps and will be ornate in design. The building is to be for A. Cuneo and will cost $25,000.

Special Notice.

The Brooklyn Mill and Lumber Conpany, which was established a year ago, has already established an important business and has furnished about one hundred and fifty houses in Brooklyn. The company has new machinery of the latest improved patterns, and will furnish pine, spruce, walnut, butternut, cherry, and all kinds of domestic lumber, doors, sashes, mouldings, stair-rails, balusters, and all styles of antique and modern trim, and will take contracts to finish houses completely. The office of the company is at the corner of Atlantic and Schenectady avenues, Brooklyn. Telephone, Bedford 33.

W. W. Montague, one of the best known and most successful of up-town brokers, has prompt buyers ready to purchase lots west of Central Park at fair prices. Owners may entrust the sale of their property to Mr. Montague with confidence that it will not be neglected, as he is a watchful and active broker and knows how to make profitable use of printers' ink in pushing his business. His offices are at Ninth avenue and Eighty-first street and Eighth avenue and Twenty-first street.

Croton Water Rates.

Notice is given that the annual water rates for 1886 are now due and payable at No. 31 Chambers street, Room 2. Notice is also given that, according to law, 5 per cent. will be added on the first of August next on all unpaid Croton water rates.

RUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—The first six months of the year show a very much better record for Common Hards than expected, even by the most sanguine operators, and there is a correspondingly cheerful feeling extant. Values, to be sure, and very naturally, have favored the downward incline since the advent of new stock, but the shading was slow and easy, with the average price on all grades to date averaging higher than for the corresponding period of last year. But it is not on price alone that receivers feel gratification, as the arrival and disposal of immense quantities of stock from week to week, sometimes without disturbing cost, has kept business in a smooth working channel and excited comments of surprise at the rapidity with which the brick were consumed. For it must be remembered that the season opened with building operations, threatened entire suspension through the acts of striking laborers, and a great deal of work was positively abandoned; yet, in the face of that, it is to-day difficult to find flany piled accumulation, conclusive evidence that brick have been handled for actual use and beyond the calculations of the majority of the trade. A potent factor in preserving a healthy tone and keeping the market in good condition has been found in the conservative action of manufacturers and the prompt manner in which the outlet was supplied. Increased opportunities for working have been driven to their fullest capacity, and, with excellent transportation facilities, quick deliveries were insured, a great deal of stock indeed, as noted last week, being taken from the kiln just as soon as it was possible to handle it, and at a great many yards to-day there is positively nothing on hand except such as may be in course of production. Haste in handling and the wet weather at unpropitious periods have left their mark on considerable stock, especially the receipts of last month, and, as a rule, quality has not led to any serious complaint, and is now again working up to a good average standard. The present week opened with ver BRICKS.-The first six months of the year show a very much better record for Common Hards than ex

CEMENT.—Although occasional slight complaints may be heard, manufacturers of Rosendale are generally in apparent excellent humor over the situation and some speak of business beyond calculations. The average country and shipping trade has taken about as much as usual and continues good, while on local account the exhaust has really proven quite liberal, and all for consumption as dealers have no accumulation on hand. Under existing laws a greater amount of cement is required in all buildings until the structures get above the foundations at least, and this makes considerable difference in the natural demand from this and adjoining cities, beside which the Aqueduct, owing to certain changes of late, is taking fuller amounts. Some little irregularity on values may be found with a range quoted at $1.00@1.10 per bbl., the latter generally insisted upon by leading makers. American Portland is actively moving and firm in prices, with manufacturers reporting all the orders they can well attend to. For imported cements the market is steadily working into better form. The receipts for the three months ending June 30th were far in excess of any corresponding period in the history of the trade, yet the total arrivals since January 1st are really a trifle less than for same time last year, while the general accumulation at this point now amounts to almost nothing, and some of the leading brands cannot be found at all except as they may from time to time arrive. A large quantity of the supply has gone into the interior and that tends to temporarily reduce demand somewhat, but there is a good trade in car lots and local customers are taking a considerable quantity, and some agents report sales ahead of arrivals. On price there is not much change, except possibly a greater degree of steadiness, a degree ofkeen competition tending to prevent an advance, es pecially as a great many of the receipts came in on low freight charges contracted early in the year. ally in apparent excellent humor over the situation and some speak of business beyond calculations. HARDWARE .- Dealers have not increased their distribution of supplies to any extent, and indeed in many cases there is a noticeable falling off from even many cases there is a noticeable falling off from even the previous small demand. The midsummer dullness is no doubt devoloping, and something of a drag may now be expected with business confined solely to standard goods for regular trade requirements. Prices do not change much so far as openly quoted, and pretty much all former lists are retained, yet there is unquestionably a great deal of "cutting" going on, even upon some of the leading descriptions, and among those mentioned of late may be noted screws, tacks, strap and T-hinges and mechanics' tools.

LATH .- One of the peculiar features of this market. for some little time past, has been the compara tively modest pretensions of receivers. They have tively modest pretensions of receivers. They have grumbled somewhat over the current prices, yet were, as a rule, frank enough to admit that it was all fairly obtainable, and could generally be found ready to negotiate with buyers willing to make the bid. It was clearly a case of too much lath. The receipts from the provinces during June amounted to 19,000,000, and from January 1st to July 1st, 43,000,000, against 27,000,010 corresponding period in 1885, with a pretty good sprinkling of Maine stock, and those amounts were a little too oppressive to prevent values from taking a comparatively easy basis. All things considered, however, the market has stood up better than might have been expected, and during the week the rate remained at $2.00 per M. for anything of standard size and condition.

LIME.—Demand has not increased much involume nor shown any specially new features, buyers moving nor shown any specially new leatures, buyers moving with some caution, and, in a few cases, handling smaller amounts than usual. Indeed, the consumption of lime has been rather slow up to the present time, as the new law compelling the use of cement exclusively in all foundations makes quite a difference in the outlet. By controlling supplies, however, sellers maintain a steady showing for values, and only small amounts are now reported affoat.

LUMBER .- "Business goes on bravely," "trade is increasing," "there is less doing," "demand very light and uncertain," "the market never was so dull," and other expressions of equally contradictory character form the basis from which it is necessary to draw conclusions as to the condition of the market. Locality of yard makes a great difference in trade just now, and while consumers in some sections of the city and suburbs are using lumber freely other points have became very dull of late, owing to the completion of early work, while at still other points jobs have been held in abeyance on the labor question, and even where new going forward it will be some time before lumber feels the influence. Manufacturing slows off a little also, or depends for the present upon accumulated stock, and on the whole it is safe to consider that there has been no increase of the movement since our last, especially as the turn of the month is a temporary quieting factor under the best of circumstances. Quotations on yard prices cover the usual wide range and are practically useless, as nearly every dealer varies in some slight particular, yet buyers, in repeating former orders would find very slight difference in cost unless they took larger quantities, and then with acceptable terms they might get some favors. There is, however, no special effort made to realize, and the hopes of an improving trade as the second half of the year gradually opens is still entertained by a great many operators who appear to have carefully studied the probabilities. Stock offering from first hands in the meantime has to take a great noany chances, and none of them over-promising. Buyers thus far have found the offering quite as full as they required, there is no reason to expect a falling off, and many of the strong reports from primary points are contradicted by the movements of agents here and the rates at which they are willing to negotiate. The export and other expressions of equally contradictory character form the basis from which it is necessary to

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

THE WEST.

SAGINAW VALLEY.

LUMBERMAN'S GAZETTE, BAY CITY, MICH.

The lumber market on the Saginaw River seems characterized by fickleness. For two or three weeks past quite a number of dealers from Ohio and the East have been flitting around from one city to the other and from the office of one manufacturer to the other, seemingly intent on purchasing, but acting very shy in regard to prices. It is undoubtedly a fact that a vast amount of lumber would have changed hands during the past ten days if the holders of the product had evinced any disposition to shade prices, but they have remained almost unanimously firm, and the hardest kind of effort on the part of dealers seems to have been virtually void of effect. Holders seem to be possessed of implicit faith in a future active demand at present prices; and anticipate great activity. during the latter part of the season; this confidence, whether well founded or otherwise, added to the fact that there is to be a very material comparative reduction in the output, inspires them to absolute firmness in their refusal to break the market. We are aware of one instance during the past week, where the manufacturer refused to sell 5,000,000 feet of stocks after the would-be purchaser had advanced $1 per thousand on his original offer, and there was but a trifling difference between the buyer and seller.

Notwithstanding this feature of the market, however, there have been a considerable number of transactions of considerable magnitude during the week, and lumber seems to be moving with more freedom than for several weeks previously. Mosher & Fisher of West Bay City sold over 2,000,000 feet, 1,000,000 of which goes to Detroit, and the balance to the east. This firm has shipped 7,000,000 feet since the 1st day of June; they have sold 10,000,000 feet, and manufactured 18,000,000 feet at $9, $18 and $88. Ct. H. Bradley purchased for Eastern parties on Monday 8,250,600 feet, prices not named, and will press 20,000-000 during June, but only a small proportion of it. comparativ

At the yards the dealers of this city are breaking out of old ruts, and are seeking trade in ways and places that they formerly did not think of. More dealers than formerly cultivate the Fastern demand—not only that of New England, New York and New Jersey, but of Pennsylvania, Maryland and the Virginias. Bills of greater or less magnitude are constantly going into the last named States. The area of the Western demand is also constantly enlarging. It is the unanimous opinion that prices are a little weaker than they were in April and May. Bills that p iss between dealers are less uniform in price than they were a short time ago. There is a disposition to make concessions in order to sell, especially on specials that are in large supply in individual yards. The demand for good lumber continues slow. There is an inclination to buy the lower grade of uppers and selects.

Lumberman and Manufacturer, \( \)

LUMBERMAN AND MANUFACTURER, MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.
The conditions of trade remain about the same. A slight increase in foreign shipments of Western produce tends to loosen up the the screws a little in all branches of business, including the lumber trade from Chicago to all Western points. The movement of lumber, as usual, exhibits some strange fancies. Heavy cargoes are being moved from Lake Superior and the northern sections of Lake Michigan to Buffalo and other Eastern points while at the same time large amounts of lumber are being shipped from Alpena and other Lake Huron points to Chicago; the cargoes pass each other on the road, and each could save probably $1. per M by going the other way.

St. Louis reports a slight increase in business, but as it is harvest time in their territory dealers do not expect any great increase in demand during the next month.

In the Northwest the feeling grows better daily, although there is no one pushing for trade. Lumber and dimension of the he vier kinds is still in good demand at nearly full prices.

Job lots are being hawked about by agents anxious to get a small commission.

Nearly 8,000,000 feet has been shipped from Minneapolis and St. Paul during the last week, and the local demand may be estimated at 4,000,000 more, a showing which ought to be entirely satisfactory to all parties concerned.

The drives are all doing finely on all the streams except the St. Croix, where the big jam bothers. No log sales reported.

GREAT BRITAIN.

GREAT BRITAIN.

From the London Timber Trades Journal we learn that in American Black Walnut there has been rather more doing by private contract lately. The afrivals have been few, and as we can hear of nothing much coming in we should suppose prices are likely to be firm. The stock of cut stuff is also getting very low. AT GLASSOW.—An auction sale of mahogany took place at Queen's Dock. The catalogue comprised the cargo ex Joneheld, from Minatitlan, just landed. consisting of 357 logs mahogany. 10 logs cedar, 110,700 sale feet, and 46 log ends; also balance of cargo lately landed ex Isfareren, from Minatitlan, viz., 346 logs mahogany; 49 logs cedar, 74,974 sale feet. The Joneheld's cargo was all sold (except 10 logs cedar with drawn), prices ranging from 2½d. to 10½d. per foot. Of the mahogany ex Isfareren, which was nearly all of very small sizes, there were 38 logs sold (7 lots) at from 2½d. to 4d. per foot, balance withdrawn. There was brisk competition for the large logs ex Joneheld, and medium sizes sold fairly well, but logs of the smallest sizes were difficult to place, 13 lots of these going at 2½d., prices for rest of cargo ranging from 2½d. to 10½d.

NAILS.—An irregular tone continues the outgrowth

NAILS.—An irregular tone continues the outgrowth of more or less speculative feeling, and the latter or more or less speculative reging, and the latter based upon the chances of production, the contest between skilled and unskilled labor at primary points not being as yet settled. In the matter of actual consumptive demand, however, business shows no great volume, nor are buyers in any way anxious over the situation, the hand to mouth policy remaining quite popular. For store lots, the quotations are placed at $2.00@2.10, and on large invoices, car load, etc., at $1.90@1.95 per keg.

PAINTS AND OILS -Demand has been quite moderate for pretty much all kinds of stock, and the erate for pretty much all kinds of stock, and the general market has a dull tone. Indeed, on many descriptions, the position is really nominal for want of a fair test, the movement of late having scarcely made even a fair jobbing volume. Holders, however, seem to have supplies very well in hand, and are carrying with hope and some confidence in a revival of trade after next month. Production is moderated to suit the requirements of the market. Linseed Oil has been selling fairly, and closes steadily at about 38@3814c. for Western, and 39@3814c. for City. Spirits Turpentine has undergone very little change, and at the close the market stands about steady at 32 @39c. per gallon, according to quantity, delivery, etc.

PITCH AND TAR .- Demand without much animation and fairly met, but supplies not urged, and buyers in pretty much all cases must bid former rates to obtain what they want. We quote Pitch at $1.50@ 1.75 per bbl.; Tar. $1.50@2.05, according to quantity, quality and delivery.

WINDOW GLASS.-A fair average business is do ing, about what might be expected for the season; ing, about what might be expected for the season; and, considering the doubt over building operations, there is the same irregularity on values. American product appears to be offered sparingly and only on a firm limit, as manufacturers are now making the annual shut-down, and production is practically suspended. This, however, does not appear to have much influence upon imported goods, for which the market rules easy. Stockholders are inclined to hold with a degree of steadiness, but there appears to be one or two owners who have something like a surplus, and they are constantly cutting a "little on value." Quotations may be named at 75 per cent, for American and 30 per cent for foreign. Plate is meeting with a fair average demand and holding a steady market throughout.

MORTGAGES.

Note.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

JUDGMENTS.

In these lists of judgments the names alphabetically arranged, and which are first on each line, are those of the judgment debtor. The letter (D) means judgment for deficiency. (*) means not summoned. (†) signifies that the first name is fictitious, real name being unknown. Judgments entered during the week, and satisfied before day of publication, do not appear in this column but in list of Satisfied Judgments.

MISCELLANEOUS

These blinds require no hinges, and all trimmings are supplied. They do not interfere with curtains or window ornaments, and are so constructed that light and air can be admitted from any part of the window. Being easily and rapidly operated they neither rattle nor get out of order. They economize space by doing away with pockets and the necessity of furring out, and can be removed and replaced instantly without even drawing a screw. They require no special frame as they can be attached with equal facility to any window. For workmanship or style these blinds are not excelled by any in the market. Call and see them, or send for circular.
